Flying Goes Ahead
A Duty to Presidents
Italy's New Submarines
Sucker Whiskey

—By Arthur Brisbane—

AVIATION CONTINUES its progress. St. Louis yesterday celebrated quietly the anniversary of Lindbergh's great flight.

Miss Johnson, 22-year-old English girl, flying alone from England to Australia, crossed the Sea of Java, landed, for lack of fuel, then started again.

The Graf Zeppelin is above the Atlantic, under way from Spain to Brazil, flying through a part of the air ocean that had never seen a dirigible.

President Hoover yesterday reviewed warships and fighting airplanes, in an interesting "mimic battle" off the Virginia Capes, the silvery Los Angeles sailing overhead.

It was a pleasant spectacle, and President Hoover, commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy, doubtless found time to remember that one-half the air force in France could destroy everything that he saw on the water and in the air, and do it in less than half an hour.

Ex-President Calvin Coolidge recently sat on the porch before his half of the little two-family house, close to the road, undisturbed by automobiles, well loaded, stopping and gazing, one every six seconds.

Mr. Coolidge said that it is the people's duty "to back the President." National success depends on this support.

On the other hand, it is the public's duty to be frank with the President, and let him know public opinion.

It is unjust to a President not to let him know the thoughts of the 115,000,000 Americans that he will never see.

Mussolini believes in emphatic words and energetic deeds to back them. Last week he told a crowd of 100,000 in Florence that Italy was prepared for everybody, France included. Now he is adding 22 submarines to the Italian navy.

With those 22 submarines Mussolini could do a great deal to the peace of mind of France, Great Britain and other shipowning nations.

Peace is beautiful, but Mussolini means to be ready for the other thing.

Mr. Doran, prohibition commissioner, finds the prohibition problem based on the fact that "people are willing to pay $10 for 13 cents' worth of sucker whiskey."

"Sucker whiskey," says Mr. Doran, "is put in special bottles, corked with aged corks burned with the right mark, labelled with salt water-stained labels, packed in salt water-stained burlap, and sold to country clubs as 'just off the boat.'"

Great Britain has stopped immigration into Palestine and the Jewish National Council proclaims a general strike throughout the Holy Land in protest. Jews in Palestine say the British order means "the doom of Zionism."

The idea of Great Britain is to give the present inhabitants of Palestine, Jews and Arabs, a chance to become acquainted and friendly. This is offensive to the Zionists.

Dr. Goldsmith of the Radio Corporation of America, thinks we need a world language "to link the peoples by radio." A world language will come through "survival of the fittest." Maybe the English language as that language dominates in movies, talkies and radio.

Other nations need not be offended by the suggestion. English is a fair compromise, being made up of French, German, Saxon, Italian, Greek, Sanskrit, Arabic and other languages.

Different countries, different customs, as the French say. In Santo Domingo Gen. Trujillo, having won the presidential election, the American receiver of Dominican customs, Mr. Pulliam, returning home, finds defeated candidates sitting on his doorstep asking protection from the successful candidate.

Imagine Gov. Al Smith after the election hurrying to the doorstep of the British ambassador for protection from President-elect Hoover.

GRAF SPEEDS UP PASSING ISLANDS

Catches Trade Wind on Tail at Cape Verde Islands; 1400 Miles to Brazil

Friedrichshafen, Germany, May 21 (AP)—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin wirelessed her home port this afternoon that she passed the Cape Verde Islands at 12:15 p. m., E. S. T. The Graf reported that all was well aboard.

The Graf, at the time of her message, was about 900 miles north of the equator and about 1400 miles from Pernambuco, Brazil, the first port in America on the way.

The Cape Verde Islands are 320 miles west of Cape Verde on the coast of Africa. They are used as an air base for South American trade from Europe and return.

After passing the Cape Verde Island Dr. Hugo Eckener, the Graf's commander, was faced by the long stretch of the South Atlantic. St. Paul's Rocks, an undetermined spot in the ocean just north of the equator, presents the next bit of land for the trip. Further south, off the coast of Brazil, is the island of Fernando De Noronha.

Although she had averaged only about 50 miles an hour on earlier stages of her voyage, later advices have indicated that she has picked up speed rapidly with her coming into the trade winds. At the speed which the Graf is now making she should reach Pernambuco some time late tomorrow.

London, May 21 (AP)—The Associated Press received a radio from the British steamer Accra

Death Waited Down There

DETAILS FOR HIS FUNERAL ARE FOUND IN DESK

Selected Bishop Sherrill to Say Service, Named Poem to Be Read Friday at Grave

George E. Phelan, manager of the George Robert White Fund of Boston, leaped to his death in Nahant bay after planning in minute detail his own funeral services and burial it was revealed today.

In his desk at City Hall, George Driscoll, his secretary in the health unit work of the $7,000,000 foundation, found the plans, written by Mr. Phelan two months ago, containing the names of pall bearers and ushers and requesting that Bishop Henry K. Sherill be the officiating clergyman at services in Mount Auburn Chapel.

Even the music for the funeral and the manner of its rendition were set down and one of the city's most prominent realtors for more than a quarter of a century requested that he be buried in a grave between the graves of his parents in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery, Concord.

SUFFERED BREAKDOWN.

Announcement that the plans had been found was made at City Hall soon after Mr. Phelan's 40-foot plunge from Pulpit Rock on the Henry Cabot Lodge estate had been officially recorded as a suicide and a new motive for his act—at least a contributory factor in his mental breakdown—became known.

This was his disappointment in the failure of Mrs. Harriet J. Bradbury, sister of the White fund donor, to provide a bequest of $5,000,000 in her will for maintenance of the health units established by the fund her brother provided.

She died while considering such a bequest.

Mr. Phelan's plans for his own obsequies were typewritten on a piece of paper among personal effects in his office. He will be buried in exact accordance with those plans, with services starting at Mount Auburn Friday at 3 o'clock.

He asked that Rev. Dr. Henry K. Sherrill, since named as bishop, officiate and that the congregation at the beginning of the service sing, "Hark, Hark, My Soul, Angelic Strains Are Telling," and at the close, "Ten Thousand Times Ten Thousand."

HIS FAVORITE POEM.

He asked that one of his favorite poems be read, specifying "Kipling's poem that starts: 'When earth's last picture is painted, and the tubes are twisted and dried.'"

"I wish a male quartet to sing, 'In a Garden' in which occur the words, '. . . and I walked with Him and I talked with Him and He told me I was His own,' he wrote.

He also asked that "Abide With Me" and "Over the Hilltops" be rendered by the quartet.

As pall-bearers he named Mayor Curley, who eight years ago appointed him as the fund's first

PHELAN, TWO MONTHS AGO, MADE MINUTE PLANS FOR FUNERAL

FIND DETAILS IN OFFICE AT CITY HALL

IS HELD SUICIDE

He selected ushers for the funeral as follows: John M. Emerson, U. S. Marshall William J. Keville, Charles E. LeBuff, Park Commissioner William P. Long, George E. Mahbet and Col. Thomas F. Sullivan, chairman of the transit board.

Mr. Phelan's plunge yesterday, the day of his death, was his 58th birthday, was reported as suicide by Dr. Timothy J. Breed of Lynn, medical examiner after he and Police Chief Thomas Larkin of Nahant had morning questioned Crescenio de Fernando, the victim's new Filipino chauffeur, his companion on the fatal walk to Pulpit Rock and the sole witness of his tragic end.

Fernando spent last night at the home of Caretaker Willard Johnson on the Lodge estate. He is suffering from strained back ligaments as a result of his courageous attempt to rescue his employer.

Dr. Breed paid a high tribute to the courage of the little chauffeur, declaring:

"I don't understand how such a small fellow was powerful enough to have worked his way down into the gorge and still be alive today to tell the story."

FRIEND NEAR COLLAPSE

Fernando is in a highly nervous state as the result of his experience.

Mrs. George A. Brown, of Swampscott, wife of the retired millionair shoe manufacturer at whose home Phelan was stopping pending the opening of his own Marblehead summer house, was reported under his care of a physician and two nurses.

She appeared at Pulpit Rock yesterday soon after Coast Guardsmen had drawn Mr. Phelan's body with ropes and there she became hysterical and nearly collapsed.

The medical examiner declared that Mr. Phelan was drowned, although he suffered a broken leg and other injuries in his drop to the rock washed shingle at the base of the huge boulder which is a landmark on the Nahant shore.

EVIDENTLY PLANNED ACT

Suicide evidently had been in the back of his mind for a long time, although the plans he set down for his funeral, other than the intimation they themselves contained, gave no indication he was contemplating taking his own life.

He had not been in the best of health for about two years, but not until a few months ago did his neurotic affliction appear to be affecting his mind. About three weeks ago his personal physician recommended that he become a voluntary patient in a sanitarium in an effort to regain his health.

LIVED WITH FRIENDS.

Fear that he would have to remain in such an institution is believed to have preyed upon his mind. About that time he moved temporarily from his Commonwealth ave., Back Bay, apartment, taking up his abode with the Browns, friends of long standing.

He hired Fernando about two weeks ago and the Filippino had driven him to different points along the North Shore.

Mrs. Bradbury's failure to provide in her will for the maintenance of the six health units established by her brother's fund, which made no provision for maintenance, was a severe blow to Mr. Phelan's hopes and a disappointment to Mayor Curley as well.

For several months before his death, Mayor Curley and Mr. Phelan sought to prevail upon her to make such provision in her will.

Both were proud of the work that had been accomplished. The establishment of the health units had placed Boston first in the world in the matter of guarding the public health. The congested parts of the city were given particular attention, and Curley and Phelan planned many more units, hoping that the will of Mrs. Bradbury would provide for their upkeep for all time.

DEATH INTERVENES.

Just as Mrs. Bradbury had agreed to give the request favorable consideration she became ill. Her strength ebbed quickly, and in her weakened condition it was impossible for anyone to talk with her.

Mayor Curley and Mr. Phelan believed that if they could have made one more appeal to the aged woman she would have acceded to their request and created another fund to be known as the Bradley Memorial.

On April 4 Mrs. Bradbury died at her Back Bay home, the last of a family known as Boston's greatest public benefactors.

More than $3,700,000 in public bequests were provided in her will. Her estate was estimated at between $12,000,000 and $13,000,000.

The fact that the public health units created through her brother's beneficence had not been mentioned in the will was a bitter disappointment to Mr. Phelan. He brooded over the failure of his dream, and from April 9, the day the Bradbury will was made public, he had remained away from social functions at which he had formerly been prominent.

SUICIDE WAS DOUBTED

Mayor Curley, one of the trustees of the Whitt fund under conditions of the bequest, who is the mayor who appointed Mr. Phelan to his post, refused to believe that the case was one of suicide.

"I cannot help but believe the death was accidental," he said.

Henry I. Harriman, who, as president of the Chamber of Commerce, is another White fund trustee, declared:

"I have known Mr. Phelan a great many years. Our relations were always most pleasant. I esteemed him highly, both as a man and as a public official. His death is a real loss to the city and it will be hard to find a man as efficient as he to handle the affairs of the White fund."

The other trustees, under the terms of the bequest, are the city auditor, Rupert S. Carven, the president of the Boston Bar Association, Herbert Parker, and the president of the city council, William G. Lynch.

PARKING SITE IS PROTESTED

Incensed at the site of a parking station on the Paine Webber estate, Pickney st., Beacon Hill, residents were up in arms today after police said they were powerless to act.

The project was started Saturday by John A. Sullivan, with the Charles river boat races the first big event.

Sullivan declares the parking station is a boon to the district. He said the remonstrants "don't know what they are talking about when they say the place is marring the beauty of the surroundings."

Coupled with that he announced that his backers have secured the Old Ladies' Home, that backs up to the Paine Webber estate and intend to house 500 delegates to the American Legion convention this fall if the city sanctions the plans. The home was abandoned three years ago.

LEASES THE LAND

"I secured a lease of 56,000 square feet of land formerly in the custody of the Paine Webber estate for business purposes," said Sullivan.

"I opened the place as a parking station to relieve traffic congestion in the Beacon Hill section. I'm sorry residents of the neighborhood disapprove.

"Last Saturday was our first day and we accommodated many cars, owners and drivers of which witnessed the boat race in the Charles River.

"There are some people in the neighborhood who always look for a chance to oppose improvements. We have a long lease and I fail to see how these so-called remonstrants can break it in court. We stand ready to fight if the occasion presents itself.

"I might add that we plan a one-stop station where motorists can secure oil and gasoline. Those who object to the parking space may enter a vigorous kick if a hearing on our petition for the license is held at City Hall.

TWO WOMEN OBJECT

Mrs. E. F. Hamilton, of 2 Brimmer st., said she was a remonstrant.

"It's a shame to allow the parking of cars in that lot," said Mrs. Hamilton. "This is a residential district. The people who live here wish to be free from noise. There should be no honking of horns to mar our composure."

Miss Olive Russell, of the same address, joined with Mrs. Hamilton in the protest.

CURTIS' SON IS UNDER QUIZ

Chicago, May 21 (AP)—Harry K. Curtis, Chicago attorney and son of Vice President Charles Curtis, was called to the state's attorney's office today and questioned concerning complaints of local contracting firms that they had paid Curtis retainers for his aid in obtaining government contracts.

Curtis told Patrick Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, that he had received approximately $10,000 in legitimate fees from contractors for legal work including investigation and research on building contracts. He denied, however, that any fees had been accepted on a promise to exert personal influence with Washington officials to win contracts for his clients.

Mike Malloy, taken into custody as reputed "go-between" in the transactions of Curtis and the contractors, was interrogated with the vice president's son.

Thaw Makes No Effort to Land

Plymouth, May 20 (AP)—Harry K. Thaw arrived today from New York, but made no attempt to go ashore from the French liner Ile de France. Thaw said he was going on a continental tour by way of Havre.

"I couldn't go ashore if I wanted to," Thaw remarked, indicating that he thought the home office order which barred him two years ago as an undesirable alien still was effective.

Thaw said he was enroute to Paris, Berlin, Budapest and Switzerland on a holiday trip.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

CAMBRIDGE IN SCHOOL PLEA

In pleading for legislation to regulate expenditures by the Cambridge school committee, Superintendent of Schools M. E. Fitzgerald today told the legislative committee on municipal finance that the school budget of the city is "hopelessly inadequate."

A recent interpretation of the laws governing city expenditures, he said, resulted in $140,000 being taken away from the school committees. Lynn, he continued, when faced with a similar problem some time ago, was granted relief through legislation.

Jessie W. Brooks, member of the school committee, declared that the regular work was seriously hampered and that the school children would be the sufferers from the lack of funds.

N. E. COUNCIL IN PLEA FOR MORE CO-OPERATION

Closer Relationship of Agriculture, Merchandise, "Recreation Business" Urged

Concord, N. H., May 21—A closer relationship between agriculture, merchandising and the "business of recreation" was urged today by speakers at the New Hampshire division of the New England Council in its sectional meeting today in the State House.

The conference was opened by H. Stiles Bridges of the New Hampshire Public Service Commission, representing Governor Charles W. Tobey.

"New England has suffered in the past from the absence of an agriculture program," S. McLean Buckingham, commissioner of agriculture of Connecticut, said.

"The future should be taken care of through the farm marketing program developed by the New Hampshire Council in conjunction with the state agricultural departments."

H. F. Fritch, passenger traffic manager of the B. & M. railroad, cited the closing of recreational centers early in the fall as a preventive of the State's growth in industry. Much added revenue would by attracted by extending the season, he said.

Proctor Redfield, president of the council, outlined the work of the organization over the past five years and told of the wide publicity given New England with the work.

"A closer co-ordination between agricultural, industrial and recreational methods in your state as well as the others in New England is the solution for better and bigger business," he said.

Other speakers included Francis W. Hatch of Boston, who spoke on selling New Hampshire; Hugh Butler of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, who explained export advantages, and Leon Dutch of Boston, who told of practices to be followed on retail merchandising.

HOOVER TELLS SENATORS TO SPEED PACT

He Wants Ratification at This Session; May Sidetrack Tariff for Treaty

Washington, May 21 (AP)—President Hoover gave the word today that he wanted the London naval treaty disposed of by the Senate before adjournment.

At a conference with Senator Watson, Republican leader, who has warned that the pact might go over until next session, the President made it clear he wanted prompt consideration.

Watson informed the President that if the treaty were reported to the Senate from committee before the tariff bill is enacted, it would be acted upon at this time.

He emphasized, however that the membership was worn out from 18 months of almost continuous session and that unless the pact were brought up when other business was concluded, it would be difficult to keep the Senate in session.

The treaty proponents moved today to speed its consideration.

Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee said he would be ready to conclude the hearings tomorrow so far as he was concerned.

British Resume Work on Naval Vessels

London, May 21 (AP)—A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, informed the House of Commons today that orders had been given for work to proceed on some vessels of the 1928 naval program. This will include the three submarines upon which work had been held up pending outcome of the naval conference.

Such orders, said Mr. Alexander, had been given regarding the six-inch gun cruiser Leander to be built at the Devonport dockyard and two destroyers to be built at Portsmouth.

Hollywood, Cal., May 21 (INS)—The pipe of peace was being smoked today by John Gilbert and Jim Tully.

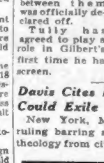
John Gilbert

Some weeks ago the two noted residents of the motion picture colony swapped blows in a cafe here. Tully went to Gilbert's home yesterday, and there the feud between them was officially declared off.

Tully has agreed to play a role in Gilbert's next picture—the first time he has appeared on any screen.

Davis Cites Dry Law Could Exile American

New York, May 21—Under the ruling barring a Yale professor of theology from citizenship, a prospective citizen might be denied naturalization if he refused to express belief in the Eighteenth Amendment. It is a part of the Constitution he is called upon to defend with his life.



John W. Davis

But John W. Davis, sometime Democratic presidential candidate, raising that possibility yesterday, pronounced it "hardly within the bounds of common sense," since prohibition admittedly is a controversial subject.

Davis argued before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. He sought to set aside the decision of Federal Judge Burrows in refusing citizenship to the Rev. Dr. Douglas Clyde MacIntosh of Yale.

Decision was reserved.

Crown Prince Olaf Saves His Wife at Fire

Oslo, Norway, May 21 — Crown Prince Olaf of Norway rescued his wife, Princess Martha, from a fire which late last night consumed his residence at Skrugum and caused estimated damage of $375,000.

Princess Martha

Friends from neighboring towns were forced to fit up a hose two miles long to a nearby lake before the flames could be extinguished.

The Princess, who was formerly Princess Martha of Sweden, took the fire calmly. She is awaiting an event upon which all of Norway hangs expectantly.

Germans Improve Movies in Color

Washington, May 21 (US)—Development of a means of protecting color motion pictures as clear as the black and white variety has been developed by a German company, the commerce department was advised.

The blurred nature of colored movies, it was explained, is due to the fact that color film projection requires 25 per cent more light than a black and white film. To eliminate the difficulty the company has designed a projector lens which allows a much larger light supply to be projected.

14 of Lynching Mob Indicted in Texas

Sherman, Tex., May 21 (US)—Indictments charging rioting, arson and burglary were returned against 14 men who were arrested following the lynching of George Hughes, 45-year-old Negro, accused of an attack upon a white woman.

During the mob violence participated in by fully 2000 persons, the Grayson County courthouse was burned down by the rioters to get Hughes, who had been concealed in a vault. Sherman is still under martial law.

CARDINAL AIDS IN PORTLAND JUBILEE

Thousands Hear High Church Dignitary Tell of Love for City and Maine

Portland, Me., May 21—With Cardinal O'Connell occupying the royal red throne at the side of the main altar in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, the threefold observance of the diocese of Maine was celebrated today.

In the presence of thousands of people, the diamond jubilee of the Maine diocese was observed, together with the 60th anniversary of the Cathedral, and the 10th anniversary of the consecration of St. Rev. Bishop John G. Murray.

In a brief sermon following the pontifical mass, Cardinal O'Connell who 29 years ago became the third bishop of the Portland diocese expressed his thanks to the people of Maine, and his pleasure at returning for a time.

300 PRELATES ATTEND

Three hundred leading bishops and priests of New England were in attendance when services began with the dedication of six marble altars, the work of Italian artists, in the Cathedral.

Following a stately and colorful procession from the rectory, a high pontifical mass was sung by Bishop Murray.

He was attended by Rt. Rev. George A. Guertin, bishop of New Hampshire; Rt. Rev. Joseph J. Rice, bishop of Vermont; Rt. Rev. John B. Peterson, auxiliary bishop of Boston; Rt. Rev. Thomas M. O'Leary, bishop of Springfield, Mass.; Rt. Rev. Daniel F. Feehan, bishop of Fall River, Mass.; Rt. Rev. William A. Hickey, bishop of Rhode Island, and Rt. Rev. John J. Niland, bishop of New Haven, Ct.

CARDINAL LOVES MAINE.

The cardinal arrived here yesterday and was given a rousing welcome by Catholics and non-Catholics alike. The interest of people of all faiths was so manifest that Cardinal O'Connell issued a special message to the residents of Portland and the state.

"The State of Maine has always been very dear to my heart," he said, "especially from the time I first arrived in Portland in July of 1901. From that day, when I arrived as a stranger, until the day I left Portland for Boston as coadjutor archbishop of the See, everybody, public officials, Protestants and Catholics alike, seemed to vie with one another to show me every possible kindness and courtesy.

"I have never forgotten the fine gesture of Governor Hill, who offered me a public reception in the State Capitol at Augusta. This, in fact, was not only quite unique but unique in the history of Maine.

A GREATER PORTLAND.

"In coming back to Portland, naturally I come back to a place I love dearly on account of the relationships which I formed here 29 years ago, not only on the spiritual, but on the civic basis. Of course, it is now a Greater Portland which has grown materially, but to me the city by the sea will always have a unique place in my heart because there I first came as a bishop amongst people eminently kind and considerate.

Today's program included the dedication of six new altars in the cathedral and the chapel, preceded by the procession from the home of the Rt. Rev. Bishop John G. Murray.

At the close of the pontifical mass the solemn Te Deum of thanksgiving was sung. Luncheon in the Cathedral Guild Hall with more than 400 priests present was a feature of the day, and the program will close in the evening with a banquet at Hotel Eastland and reception by the laity.

Association is told that price-cutting in the sale of books will ruin the book trade. On the other hand intelligent reduction in prices of books would establish the book trade. Selling ten or fifteen thousand books means nothing.

Books should be read by the millions. And the book business, like other great businesses, should build itself up on big sales and small profits. Instead of selling for $2.50 a book that can be made for 40 cents.

Poem Phelan Loved to Echo at Grave

Following is Rudyard Kipling's poem, which George E. Phelan specified, before his tragic death, should be read at his funeral:

When earth's last picture is painted and the tubes are twisted and dried,
When the oldest color has faded and the youngest critic has died,
We shall rest, and, faith we shall need it—lie down for an eon or two,
'Till the Master of all good workmen shall put us to work anew.

And those that were good will be happy; they shall sit in a golden chair;
They shall splash at a ten-league canvas with brushes of comets hair;
They shall find real saints to draw from, Magdalene, Peter and Paul,
They shall work for an age at a stroke and never be tired at all.

And only the Master shall praise us, and only the Master shall blame,
And no one shall work for money, and no one shall work for fame;
But each for the joy of working, and each in his separate star
Shall draw the thing as he sees it, for the God of things as they are.

COLD CREAM TAKES PLACE OF WATER

Lady Hay Praises Seville for Hospitality to Graf's Crew and Passengers

Radio via Chatham, Mass.

Aboard the Graf Zeppelin, en route to Pernambuco, May 21—This is the first dispatch sent direct from the Graf Zeppelin to a radio station in America.

It was filed as we were pushing along through the air above the Atlantic Ocean. Dr Eckener has changed the Graf's course once more, and we now expect to pass over the Canary Islands at 1 a. m. this morning. (8 p. m. Tuesday, E. S. T.)

A beautiful burst of sunshine in the late afternoon, flooding the lounge and cabins, galvanized to life some stowaways we had not previously observed—flies!

It struck me as an amusing incongruity to see our royal prince, the Infanta Alfonso, swatting flies in an airship over an ocean.

PRAISES SEVILLE
Friendly, Smiling Crowd Sees Graf Start

There is a great demand for eau de cologne and cold cream as substitutes for our cleansing water, on which we have been requested to economize to the utmost until we reach Pernambuco, which we hope to do Thursday.

We dropped more than a ton of water in taking off at Seville.

One of our happiest and most enthusiastic passengers is the royal Infanta Alfonso De Bourbon-Orleans. Senor Herrera wears the dark-green uniform of a lieutenant-colonel in the Spanish air force, which sets off his handsome Spanish features and his fine figure.

"I just love it!" was the way Mrs. Pierce of New York, who was our third passenger to come with us at Seville, explains her emotion for the Graf Zeppelin. Our passenger list now numbers 19.

Seville is the "Queen of courteous cities."

She lived up to this gentle reputation when we arrived, and again when we departed, yesterday morning.

No formalities interrupted the suavity of her reception and welcome. The ground was alive with uniformed officials, sparing no pains to help in the welcome. But no one was asked for passports, nor was there any baggage looked into or examined.

The road from the flying ground to beautiful Hotel Alfonso XIII was crowded with vehicles of every kind, bearing bevies of lovely Sevillanas, in mantillas, with roses in their hair and carrying fans.

SEVILLE'S GIFT
Famous Picture Presented to Graf Zeppelin

Three new passengers joined us at Seville: His Highness, the Infante Alfonso; Lieut.-Col. Emilio Herrera and Mrs. Mary Pierce of New York.

The ground was crowded with the most friendly, smiling crowd. Many of the women wore their hugh high combs with priceless lace mantillas. Some of the parties were still in evening dress, having come direct from the night's entertainment.

The passengers are all eager, not one of them expressing any nervousness.

Labor Withdraws Censure of Glass

Petersburg, Va., May 21 (AP)—The Virginia Federation of Labor has expunged from its records a resolution of censure of United States Senators Carter Glass and Claude A. Swanson for their support of Judge John J. Parker for the United States Supreme court.

The action climaxed the second day of the annual convention of the state federation.

Henry Ford to Inspect Fire Department Relics

George Y. Berry, owner of the fire department museum located in his Howard st. home in Roxbury, is holding a lantern relic of Kearsarge Engine 3 of Portsmouth, N. H., which came to the great Boston fire on November 9, 1872. The brass pig came from the Barnicoat hand tub engine once located in cellar of City Hall. The hat is a relic of Hose Wagon 5, Shawmut ave.

Jackie Foram of Roxbury wearing the fire cape hat worn in 1865 by T. C. Pratt of Cabot st., Engine 13. The bucket was used by firemen in 1826 in Ward 3 when they fought fires with buckets.

Baby Marion Wallace of Roxbury is wearing the helmet worn by the Dorchester fire chief before its annex to Boston. It is relic of Engine 4, of 1862. The lantern was used by Ladder 1, Boston Fire Department, in 1861.

Mrs. Marion Wallace of Roxbury is talking through megaphone-fire horn which was presented to Engine 8 of Salem st., Boston, in 1870, by the people of the North End. It was known as the Northern Liberty Engine. The hat she is wearing was owned by the late J. W. Kneeland of Roxbury Fire Department in 1904. (Staff photos.)

FORD SEEKING FIRE RELICS

An invitation to inspect the private fire department museum of George Y. Berry at his Howard st., Roxbury, home has been accepted by Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer. Ford has designated no date as yet as to when he will visit Boston.

It is understood that Ford is anxious to obtain some of the Berry relics for his Wayside Inn at Sudbury, especially the Boston fire box No. 52, from which was sounded the general fire alarm during the Boston fire in 1872.

The Berry museum, of which the famous box 52 is the outstanding exhibit of historical interest, contains relics of various fire departments of the world, including helmets, water chugs, parts of ancient engines, photos of long forgotten fire chiefs, pictures of the Boston fire of 1872 and of subsequent conflagrations of note, and all kinds of bells.

TARIFF ACCORD IS DUE TODAY

Washington, May 21 (AP)—Agreement by nightfall on all tariff bill provisions with the possible exception of the flexible clause was predicted today by Senate Republican leaders.

Curfew Goes Broke, So Uxbridge Can Stay Up Later

Uxbridge, May 21 (AP)—Curfew will not ring tonight—in Uxbridge.

After 150 years of constant service, the clapper in the giant bell in the belfry of the Brown & Davis mill will remain silent tonight as the bell rope is broken and the selectmen are not agreed as to whether it should be spliced and the curfew resumed.

The more progressive citizens are urging the selectmen to discontinue curfew on the ground that Uxbridge long ago ceased to be a 9 o'clock town.

DRY LEAGUER'S AMEN ON FORT

Washington, May 21 (AP)—The "Amen" of the Anti-Saloon League to an indorsement by its New Jersey branch on the senatorial candidacy of Representative Fort was given to the Senate lobby committee today by F. Scott McBride.

"So you indorse the manufacture and use of [illegible] brew?" asked Senator Blaine of Wisconsin.

"No," McBride replied. "Neither did Fort in his speech in Congress."

He said he had read Fort's speech twice and it was a "good speech."

Fort announced his candidacy for the six-year term on a pro-prohibition platform after Dwight Morrow and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen both had come out against the dry laws.

McBride testified John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., contributed to the Anti-Saloon League in 1921. The younger Rockefeller gave $20,000 and the elder $10,000. In 1924 the younger gave $15,000 and the elder $10,000. In 1925 both gave $20,000 jointly.

McBride said Henry Ford had never contributed to the league but had supported other prohibition work.

Autoist's Tip Leads to Big Liquor Haul

Providence, R. I., May 21—Four men, one from Boston, were arrested and $25,000 worth of choice liquors seized in Narragansett yesterday, by State troopers and police, tipped off by a passing motorist.

Swooping down on the Hummocks Club, a road house, and the Collins farm, adjoining, they seized champagne, rye, bourbon and cognac. The four gave their names as Barnet Lubin, of Roxbury, Mass.; Paul Babel, of Pawtucket; Henry Bernstein and Louis Cohen, of Providence.

When the President Steps Down

Photo shows President Hoover climbing down from the bridge of the cruiser Salt Lake City, from which he reviewed the Atlantic fleet off the Virginia Capes yesterday. The gigantic battleships, the cruisers, submarines, airplane carriers and other craft maneuvered in war formation while scores of navy planes soared over the head of the navy's commander-in-chief. The President enjoyed the review hugely. (Associated Press photo.)

DAVIS SWAMPS OPPONENTS IN SENATE RACE

Pinchot Steadily Cutting Down Brown's Lead; 1546 Districts Missing

Philadelphia, May 21 (AP)—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis received more votes than all his opponents combined for the Republican nomination for United States senator in unofficial returns from 6740 of the State's 8701 districts in Tuesday's primary.

The lead of the former Pittsburgh iron puddler rose above the huge majority given him in Philadelphia and with 1961 districts to be tabulated amounted to 215,911.

While the lead of the secretary was increasing, that of his running mate for governor, Francis Shunk Brown, was steadily decreasing. With 1546 districts missing Brown led Gifford Pinchot by 24,337.

Most of the missing districts were in up-state rural territory where Pinchot's strength is most pronounced. Additional returns steadily cut into Brown's lead.

The vote for senator from 6740 districts was: Davis 959,241; Grundy 393,330 and Francis H. Bohlen, wet candidate, 202,333.

The totals for 7235 districts gave Brown 558,281; Pinchot 533,944 and Thomas W. Phillips, wet, 328,387.

The position given would place the Graf somewhat over a thousand miles from Cadiz, over which she passed out to sea yesterday at 4:43 a. m.

EXCLUSIVE

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Special Correspondent Aboard the Graf Zeppelin

(Copyright, 1930, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., in United States, Canada, Mexico, Japan, South America, England, Ireland and Continental Europe. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

Radio via Chatham, Mass.

Aboard the Graf Zeppelin, en route to Pernambuco, May 21—The Graf Zeppelin, after having its course changed twice, passed the eastern shore of Teneriffe, one of the Canary Islands, at 5 a. m. today (midnight E. D. T.), and is now headed for the Cape Verde Islands.

All is going well aboard, and except for a slight economy in water, forced by the dropping of more than a ton at Seville, we are having no trouble. We should easily pick up Pernambuco tomorrow before noon.

At 11:30 last night (7:30 E. D. T.) we were skirting the edge for a time, and then boldly dashing into the shallow low pressure zone, moving westward from Morocco.

The Graf Zeppelin covered 630 miles in the first 12 hours of the Seville to Pernambuco flight.

STEADY SAILING
Passengers Lull About at Ease

Dr Eckener at first thought he could get around the depression, but finding it was carrying him too far to the west, that he wasn't shaking the southwest headwind, not able to locate "the lost trade winds," he turned the Graf's nose directly into the low pressure zone and said:

"We'll buck through it!"

Yesterday morning he changed his course from the Canary Islands to the Madeiras, but in the afternoon whirled back again.

At 9 o'clock last night we were at a position 14:20 degrees west longitude, 31:40 north latitude, heading for Santa Cruz De Teneriffe, the Canary Islands. The head winds had died down to 10 miles an hour. We were flying then 800 feet above the smooth Atlantic with the weather good except for varying contrary winds.

At 7:10 o'clock last night we passed over the British steamer Nigeria, which saluted with its siren and dipped the Union Jack three times. The Graf acknowledged by bowing its nose three times.

Assistant Chief Engineer Beurle tells me the motors are working smoothly and are throttled down to between 1320 and 1410 revolutions per minute.

All day the Atlantic slipped away never an 1000 feet beneath us. The mists limited the horizon. The ship was very steady and the passengers lolled about taking their ease.

By noon the cloud of annoyance, the lack of snappiness caused by disappointing improvised arrangements at the Seville landing field had partly cleared up in Dr. Eckener's face. He pressed at his table with the usual dignity. Prince Alfonso was one of his guests.

Despite bucking head winds of ever-changing force, the Graf made fair time, varying from 40 to 62 miles an hour.

Soon after leaving the Spanish coast, Prince Alfonso received a wireless message from King Alfonso wishing Dr. Eckener, the passengers and the ship "fair winds and a good voyage."

We sighted the glorious Atlantic, on the Graf Zeppelin's sixth crossing of that great ocean less than an hour after we had said goodbye to Seville.

The tri-motored Junkers plane, with six German newspaper correspondents aboard, which had accompanied us turned back, after waving us godspeed.

Considering that these long flights through uncharted air lanes and over a wide ocean in a craft still in the stage of development, call on Dr. Eckener and his staff of officers for the highest degree of alertness every moment. It would be a great service to the ship's officers if, in view of the nature of their tasks, welcoming cities would refrain from inviting them to participate in demonstrations the night before their departure.

At least, that's the way they feel about it on board. The officers are tremendously interested in the task before them, and they wish to be in the best possible condition. Their strain is great, and if they get no sleep before their journeys begin, that strain is still greater.

"All aboard for South America! Pernambuco next stop Thursday morning."

Capt. Von Schiller, standing at the head of the Graf Zeppelin's gangplank so called to the passengers yesterday. Our collection of air argonauts were on the ground promptly, when the big bus of the Hotel Alfonso drove alongside the mooring mast.

BREEZE AIDS TAKEOFF

Dr. Eckener who knows not only his ship but the spheres it rides in, was just walking from bow to stern of the big craft, inspecting it. As he saw us, he looked at his wrist watch and [illegible]. That meant that he had approval of our promptness.

It was an ideal day for the [illegible] a light breeze and the temperature was not high, all of which gave the Graf a good lift. We are four tons heavier than when we left Friedrichshafen. Commander Shoenaker of the U. S. N. who has been sleeping up in the aerie interior, has moved into a cabin with me.

The passengers are in excellent; some even affect to be blase, although we are on another epochal flight that is to bring Europe within two days of South America. The success will mark another important stage in trans-ocean passenger and mail air traffic.

Promptly at eight o'clock Dr. Eckener gave the order to take the ship off the mooring mast. Mounted police pressed back the crowd. Assistant Chief Engineer Karl Beurle and the "master of flight," as the technical chief of things inside is called, both reported the ship trimmed and ready.

What American Readers Are Thinking

Daughter of Revolution Praises Editorial

Editor Boston American:

May I express my deep appreciation of your editorial, "As the Twig is Bent the Tree Inclines," in this evening's American.

Our organization, as you of course are aware, has received much unfavorable publicity because of our deep desire to keep America American.

When, as recently happened, a woman of more or less prominence who is internationally minded, feels she must resign, the entire (almost) press comments upon it, not always to our advantage; yet nothing whatever has been said about the approximately 10,000 new members admitted during the past year.

Your editorial was such a surprise and delight that I simply cannot resist expressing my personal gratitude and deep appreciation, and I know literally thousands of other loyal Daughters of the American Revolution feel exactly as happy and grateful to you tonight as I do.

Urges Chance for Young People at Conventions

Editor Boston American:

After reading an account of the Episcopal Club dinner in your paper with the additional information that the young people are taking more interest in the Episcopal Church, I am moved to use your column in stating the grievance of some young people.

I am spokesman for many of the younger laity. To be perfectly frank there are too many clergy and laity over 50 holding down positions in this body.

The old war horses at every diocesan convention held in Boston, are always visible and spouting on rules of order. To be short, if the Episcopal Church wants to win the interests of the younger laity, give them responsible positions at conventions or in other words give them a show. Why is it necessary to find old war horses holding forth, as if the new generation was incompetent? The Northern Baptist convention to cite an incident worthy of quoting, has a young business man as president who will not air tight there for years.

Bootlegging Nothing New for Boston

Editor Boston American:

We talk so much about bootlegging in Boston, why if you read the early history of Boston and Massachusetts, you will find that there was bootlegging in slaves right here in the Hub before 1788.

Massachusetts vessels trafficked in slaves. Boston merchants were implicated in the questionable business. They were doing business on the sly. Long before the Revolution, Massachusetts made two efforts to stop this bootlegging in slaves. But the matter was stopped and frustrated by the governor.

In October, 1787, a law was enacted imposing a fine of $5000 on every vessel entering Boston and other ports, engaged in slave trade and an additional fine of $500 on every slave found in vessels. Hold your head high, we are ten-fold better than our forbears. Bootlegging in slaves is ten-fold worse than the modern style. History is an excellent cordial for drooping spirits, after so many speakeasies were put out of business.

Points Out Shortest Route to New London

Editor Boston American:

Fully realizing that the "Boston Evening American" is ever desirous of extending to its many admirers and readers nothing but accurate information, permit me by this to inform you that the most practical, shortest, and most beautiful route between Boston and New London is Route No. 1. The distance between these two points is 100 miles, and permits the automobilist, while en route, to view scenic beauties unrivalled by any views in the world.

Those good sports who are desirous of witnessing the coming boat race and by their presence stimulate the energy of the striving oarsman of their respective Alma Mater, can leave Boston on Route No. 1, passing through Wrentham, Pawtucket, Providence, Westerly and Mystic. By changing from Route No. 1 to Route No. 1A, at Providence, the distance would be materially reduced.

This Woman Favors Both Short and Long Skirts

Editor Boston American:

Now that short skirts have bobbed up again, on account largely of an incident on Boston Common, upon which I do not care to comment, except this, that in this age we are getting rid of the mystery of the flesh.

Short and long skirts should be the fashion to be tolerated. Bow legs must patronize the long skirt, that goes without any question.

Dresses must come down on this type of legs. This has been the slogan of the Paris manufacturers for some time. It will be welcome news for the textile industry where short skirts have played havoc. Automobiles are responsible for small hats. Bow legs are responsible for long skirts.

But don't do away with short skirts. I am only saying this to relieve the shame that has dawned upon those who have nothing to show of nature's gifts in this particular.

Objects to Editorial On Dr. Cadman

Editor Boston American:

I write this in protest at the very unjust editorial in your paper of May 14, concerning one for whom I, in company with millions of other good American citizens, have only the greatest reverence and respect, the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, one whom your paper should never presume to mention except in terms of respect as an honored and well loved clergyman, a gentleman and a scholar. I have at various times been highly incensed at the very unfair way such items have been presented in your paper, especially that which pertains to clergymen of my church, the Protestant Church, of which I am justly proud and privileged to belong.

I have read faithfully your paper since the day it first appeared on the streets of Boston nearly 30 years ago, my only regret in that I have been such a poor judge of my reading material. Now I care not what your religion or political views are, that is your business but a newspaper to hold the respect of its readers should at best show a sense of fairness to those readers who may hold different views.

Your editorial is an insult and a veritable slap in the face to all that I reverence and respect in one who is not only a great and good American clergyman but an international force in the world. I fully realize that this tirade of yours against him will only serve to make real Americans stronger for him and for what he stands for, than possibly your praise ever could. Your paper has been delivered to my door for years, every evening from this date cancel all deliveries from your Winthrop office. I am through with you and your publications forever.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

Is there any reason why a man who has been jilted by a rich woman should not sue her for breach of promise?

This question I had to face a short time ago. After irrigating my thoughts with my wisdom of the past, I said with emphasis:

"There is no reason against such a suit in modern life where women acquire positions in trades, professions and other commercial interests.

"But here's the rub. How about the jury? A man's plight in such a case would never stir the jury to sympathy. It is the jury that you have to reckon with.

"Suppose you sue for $50,000 and have every evidence more or less in your favor, do you really know what the verdict of the jury would give; just one buck. Take it from me, never bring a breach of promise suit before a jury of men; wait till women are in majority on the jury, then you will get the full amount or little short of it."

U. S. WILL MAP MAINE FROM AIRPLANE

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

Stopping at Boston Airport for the night after an attempt to fly through to Bangor, Lieut. Guy H. Gale, U. S. Army Air Corps, revealed a plan whereby 5000 square miles, comprising the state of Maine, would be mapped from the air this summer.

Lieut. Gale will be in charge of the operations, and the flight on which he was forced to return here by bad weather, was of the nature of a reconnaissance trip.

He hopes to have the expedition at Bangor and establish all quarters for men and machines at that airport.

The map will be made for the Department of Interior of the Federal Government, with arrangements made with the Army Air Corps for the use of military airplanes and men for the job.

Half the expense will be paid by the State of Maine and the other half by the Department of Interior.

Accompanying Lieut. Gale was Staff Sergt. William C. McQuillen, both connected with the 8th Photo Section of Mitchell Field, New York. The preliminary work of laying out quarters and servicing facilities for the plane and its mechanics will be made on this trip along with all the other details.

The first order calls for the mapping of 4200 square miles of territory in the eastern section of Maine, and as soon as that is finished, an additional section of 1700 miles will be mapped.

One pilot, one photographer, a plotter, an aerial development expert and a crew chief will comprise the staff to do the work, all working under Lieut. Gale's instructions.

In order to be sure their work is going through in good shape, a photo truck from Mitchell Field will be driven up to Bangor, and the exposed films will be developed on the scene. If they are all right the films will then be sent to Mitchell for printing.

Smith Seniors Don Gowns, But Doff Their Stockings

Northampton, May 21 (INS)—Smith college girls of the graduating class today joined with the boy students of Dartmouth college in "freedom of the knees."

The dignified seniors appeared in traditional black mortar caps and flowing gowns but added an artistic touch by wearing no stockings. The black gowns, worn over bright colored dresses, flapped in the breeze, revealing the new style for girl seniors.

Dartmouth inaugurated the "freedom of the knees" by discarding trousers and knickers on the campus for English type shorts, with socks rolled down to the shoe tops.

The laugh, it was said at Smith, was "on" the boy students at Amherst College, the Alma Mater of ex-President Calvin Coolidge, in the neighboring town of Amherst. The boys of Amherst modestly had refused to join with Dartmouth in the "shorts campaign" because of the proximity of Smith college.

DWYER FAMILY FUND $5107

The fund for the widow and three children of Patrolman Franklin B. Dwyer, slain in a Dorchester drug store robbery, reached $5107.12 today with a smoke talk in Bloomfield Hall tonight expected to swell the fund further.

Proceeds of Monday's ball game between the Codman A. A. and St. Mark's Club netted $165.60 which was turned over to Charles D. M. Bishop, treasurer of the fund, today.

Tonight's affair will consist of boxing, wrestling and a long program of entertainment with F. J. Connelly, postal official, as chairman.

Of the sum netted so far $3694.50 has been turned in by police as a result of their collection and $1412.62 is listed by the Dorchester Board of Trade.

In a banker it's Integrity

in a cigarette it's Taste

GOOD REPUTATION and high standards—these are among the banker's chief assets. Likewise, Chesterfield's.

SMOKERS THE WORLD OVER stick to Chesterfield because of its thorough dependability of quality, its unchanging good taste.

GOOD TASTE!—What smoker would trade it for any number of cigarette claims? No Chesterfield smoker would. For here choice tobaccos are blended and cross-blended to a finer aroma and a richer, milder flavor to give you the utmost a cigarette can offer . . . "TASTE above everything".

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price.

RULES GOVERNING AWARDS

1. Beginning Monday, May 19, every day, including Sunday, for twenty-nine days, a message will be broadcast over Stations WNAC and WHDH, from which a word or words will be omitted. On the thirtieth day no message will be broadcast and contestants will supply their own message. Everyone is invited to receive these messages and locate the missing word or words with the help of a clue in the form of a picture published in the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser. This picture will illustrate the missing word. On the thirtieth or last message the picture alone will be published and entrants will supply their own message to fit this picture.

2. $500 in cash will be paid by the American and Advertiser to readers who send in the nearest correct and complete sets of solutions to the thirty messages, and other valuable awards will be made.

3. Everyone residing in New England is allowed to participate in these awards except employes of the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser, their immediate relatives and families.

4. Hold all messages until you have the complete set of thirty (30). Then send them all in together in one package addressed to the Radio Mystery Message Editor, Boston American-Advertiser, 8 Winthrop Square, P. O. Box 158, Boston, Mass., within the period to be specified later in this newspaper.

5. Messages used may be extracts from speeches of famous men and women, from poems, from correspondence or other suitable sources, and each extract will be matter of known record and the missing word must be the exact word used in the original message.

6. Each package sent in must be fully prepaid, first class postage. Packages received with insufficient postage will not be considered. You may send in as many sets as you wish, but no person will be entitled to more than one award.

7. In case there are no complete sets of correct solutions submitted, awards will be given to the persons submitting the nearest correct solutions, giving weight to skill and judgment. In cases where the solutions to the twenty-nine messages are identical, awards will be made on the basis of judgment, exact accuracy and skill in supplying the thirtieth or final message.

Thus the 29 messages most nearly correct, and the last or ORIGINAL MESSAGE deemed the best, will win the principal award.

8. The Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser reserves the right to make any change in, or addition to, these conditions that it may deem necessary for fairly and properly conducting the Plan and the decision of the Tercentenary Radio Mystery Message Editor on any question which may arise will be absolutely final and the entering of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations made now or to be made.

Romagne - Sous - Montfaucon, France, May 21 (AP)—Nearly two-thirds of the American gold star mothers who have made the long journey to France looked for the first time today on their soldier sons' graves in the principal American military cemetery here. There are buried in this cemetery half of America's war dead in this country.

Many of the mothers brought evergreen wreaths, some entwined with flowers and others found wreaths ready for them here. Some brought little American flags which they placed on the graves.

The mothers, almost 200 of them, went in little groups to different parts of the cemetery and there they prayed at the graves of their boys. There was some sobbing and all were wet-eyed as they knelt.

When after an hour a squall of rain came, the mothers were hurried by the accompanying officers to the hostess house where they comforted each other and where lunch was served.

All of the mothers arrived well at Verdun last night, but as many were tired that the city's welcoming ceremony was postponed until today.

Roller Skate Jamboree Tonight at Wollaston Beach Boulevard

THE HOLY ROLLERS—youthful society's latest fad—are having a jamboree tonight at Wollaston Beach, on Wollaston boulevard, from 8:30 until midnight. Hockey players will be in great demand by the popular debs of this season, who are looking forward with great glee to this new pastime, rollerskating. For those who are a bit timid of putting on the rollers, informal dancing will be their pleasure to the tunes of a hurdy-gurdy and an accordion.

A SPECIAL FEATURE WILL be a real rolling hockey game, Harvard vs. Saugus, wherever that is, and Willy Frick will show them how it is done by a professional. Hot dogs and root beer will be provided for healthy young appetites. Of course, Rosamund Holton (Rowdy Roddy) will be there, and Carolyn Day, Margaret Ford, Caroline Reed, Rosamond Gardiner, Harwood Ellis, David Forbes, James Madden, Hiram Sibley and William Elwell, in fact, we hear they had quite a bit to do with staging the party. What next?

Daytime Frock Keeps Tabs on Collar and Cuff

From Paris Bureau, Boston Evening American

Paris, May 21.

WE ARE keeping tabs on some of the nicest frocks this season. The use of little lace-edged tabs of linen and lawn on silk afternoon frocks is frequent just now and provides a daintily demure touch quite in keeping with the very feminine frocks now obtaining. Such details lend charm to any frock, and are therefore quite in keeping with the more elaborate frock as with the simple little model designed for strictly utilitarian wear.

Despite the variety of materials available this year, taffeta maintains its popularity here, and it is much seen in the form of crisp, bright-looking afternoon frocks. When it is in black or dark blue, it is generally relieved with light touches in white or pink, and these dark shades taffeta is a ideal medium for the allday, all-occasion frock that is an integral part of the wardrobe these busy days.

It is woven without that metallic sheen that made it somewhat difficult to wear, especially by the more mature type of figure, but it is now offered with a fresh, crisp luster that adds materially to the fabric.

The sketch shown here today is of a very smart navy taffeta afternoon frock from Delong. Small lace-trimmed tabs of lawn matching the double collar are drawn through slits at the front of the bodice and on the sleeves. A circular peplum is superimposed on a straight skirt, and dipping sharply in front is cleverly gathered into two groups of pedets. The fabric belt is fastened with blue enamel buckle. There are many women who are addicted to the strictly sport suit, and for such clients Lucien Delong has created some most desirable models, one of which is shown here. It is of tweed in a mixture of pastel blue and black. The full length coat has an interesting yoke and sleeve-top, and is lined in pastel blue to match the shade of the wool jersey that makes the neat little blouse. The skirt has a wide box-pleat to one side.

PASTEL BLUE AND BLAK TWEED is used in this strictly sport suity Lelong. The full length coat has a neat yke and sleeve-top and is lined with pastel lue and black. (Sketched in Paris.)

NAVAL TREATY OFFERS BIG LOOPHOLE

By CAPT. NELSON H. GOSS
United States Navy

(U. S. Naval Academy, 1905; commanded destroyers and convoy escorts in European war zone during World War; graduate Naval War College; recently commanding the U. S. ship Sirius; Captain Goss is a practical sea-going officer, who has devoted much study to the subject of sea power and is a well-known writer on naval subjects.)

The London treaty contains a clause which enables any of the powers concerned to disregard the limitations it contains should conditions arise which, in its own opinion, makes this desirable. No further agreement is required, the other signers of the treaty need not be consulted; simply notified.

Responsible naval opinion has always favored definite limitations of all the categories that go to make up naval strength. If such an agreement permitted a combined strength of the various elements sufficient to enable our navy to discharge the duties devolving upon it under our treaties with other powers, and a recognized interpretation of the question of freedom of the seas by a comparative strength in the accepted ratio of 5-5-3, not only would there be a means of definitely limiting the cost of the navy but naval competition, that great cause of apprehension and disturber of the peace, would be eliminated.

FREEDOM OF SEAS

An agreement on the freedom of the seas, in connection with existing treaties and policies, would enable the strength to comprise an adequate navy to be determined. Definite limitations in all categories of naval strength would enable the cost to be not only computed, but limited to a point where it could be definitely forecast in the budget.

The question of freedom of the seas is, however, left open to individual interpretation.

This loophole clause, sometimes referred to in the press as the escalator clause, not only unsettles the question of building policy leading to some definite determination of cost, but lends an uncertainty to the whole future. Foreign powers naturally interpret developments in accordance with their own particular interest, and this clause would leave them free to act as they may desire.

THERE'S A REASON

It was doubtless put there for that very reason, and the ostensible reason referred to has been the apprehension of the British over the French refusal to curtail their building program without a security guarantee.

Complications, even serious ones, may easily arise within the next few years in the present unsettled state of the world. The differences between France and Italy, for example are not adjusted.

At this conference Italy claimed parity with France, and refused to agree to the limitations of this treaty without it. The future effect of the condition in Russia on the world is uncertain.

India is seething. The entire Moslem world may be affected. Conditions in China are still chaotic. So various causes may easily arise to induce one of the signatory powers to take advantage of this clause to further its own particular interest.

MENACE OF RUSSIA

The same community of interest that drew Great Britain and Japan together in the past still exists. The menace of Russia is still there and now American trade is cutting into their markets. The traditional policy of Great Britain has been to form a coalition against her serious competitors.

This particularly affects our interest and possible welfare in the scrapping program under this treaty. What ships we have are real and definite, they are paid for and we already have them.

If we scrap them we not only reduce our actual strength, throw away something, and maybe giving up the very thing that will be needed most after some interpretation by another of the loophole clause in this treaty.

Unless the treaty is definite it would not only be unwise but might be dangerous to definitely limit our naval vessels, particularly to give up something we already have in such relatively valuable categories as capital ships and destroyers.

The loophole clause not only enables others to change limitations that are otherwise fixed, but to change the categories in a manner that suits their convenience, without consideration of our welfare.

LONG TABLE FOR BIG FAMILY

SHOWN today is an old trencher table with spool-turned legs. The table extends to a length of 15 feet, 5 inches. Its history is interesting. It is in use, and has been in use for more than 100 years in an old house at 427 Court st., North Plymouth. Mrs. Eugenie M. Bodell, its owner, gives an interesting account of its history. She says:

"We have deeds of transfer as far back as 1834, when the house and furniture passed into the possession of the Gray kin, but it was bought by Edwin S. Ross of Brooklyn, N. Y., for his sister Mary, who had married David Harvey. The table was brought from England, Plymouth, to be exact, by David's grandfather, Jonathan Harvey, who sailed as first mate under Capt. Nathaniel Spooner, brother of Bourne Spooner, founder of the Plymouth Cordage Co. Jonathan Harvey was first mate for seven years, and piloted the ship into this port when Capt. Spooner was taken ill on the homeward trip and died.

"Through Prof. Percy Whiting, whose grandmother was a Harvey, I have traced the history, and find the deeds recorded in the courthouse here.

"Edwin S. Ross was of the Betsy Ross family (Betsy Ross, of flag fame, was named Ross before she married Ross) and the deeds that are in my possession are witnessed and signed by famous personages, in the old script. The table was in the house before Mary Ross married David Harvey. I doubt if another like it exists around here. It is, of course, all hand carved, of black walnut, and well preserved, but has seen hard usage.

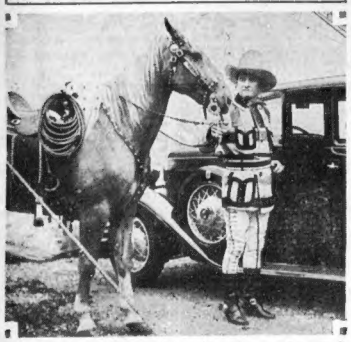
Horse Is a Bit Jealous



Tom Mix, popular Western picture star, and now a circus headliner, is the object of considerable jealous attention among his famous horses these days as a result of his new Nash "400" single six sedan.

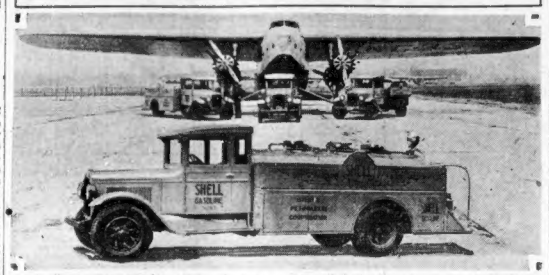
SALES BOOSTED BY CHRYSLER PRICE CUT

The recent announcement of price reductions of $200 to $350 on all closed models of the Chrysler "77" line has met with enthusiastic public reception, according to reports from distributors and dealers all over the country. Retail sales have shown a decided increase and factory shipments have been stepped up to keep pace with demand. The price reductions were made to clear the way for new Chrysler models to appear in midsummer. No change in prices of the Imperial, "70," "66" and the new low-priced Chrysler Six lines was made.

All models affected by the price cut are finished in distinctive color combinations long associated with Chrysler, and include such mechanical features as the multi-range four-speed transmission and gear shift and down-draft carburetion, affording maximum flexibility and power for the 93-horsepower engine. Having a bore and stroke of 3¾ by 5, this engine has a total displacement of 268.4 cubic inches, and in recent speed trials in California developed a speed of more than ninety miles an hour with standard stock car-equipment.

"This is the most drastic price reduction ever made in Chrysler history," says C. E. Fay, Chrysler distributor in Boston, "and it brings to the buyer in the moderate price field a list of mechanical features heretofore associated only with higher priced cars. Already a leading line of cars in their original price class, the "77" models now offer the best in Chrysler performance to thousands of additional motorists at a time when automotive values are carefully weighed by a motorwise public."

Trucks Bring Super-Service to Planes



Fuel, oil, pressure greasing, water, air, towing, beacon and flood light service for airplanes on landing fields are now furnished at many of the leading airports by a fleet of six Dodge Brothers two-ton trucks operated by the Shell Petroleum Corp.

5 BIG FACTORS IN PLYMOUTH

The new, finer Plymouth is one of the lowest-priced cars in the world, and includes features that are exclusive in its price class because of the scientific and precise working out of economies in the five major factors in the development of an automobile, according to A. J. Van Der Zee, general sales manager, Plymouth Motor Corporation.

The first of these factors is the designing and engineering skill put into the car. The second is the economical purchasing of the materials that go into the car. The third is the efficient layout of the machinery of the factory in which it is built. The ratio between productive and non-productive labor employed for the manufacture is the fourth step. The final step is the plan of distribution and merchandising.

WILLYS AMONG FINE CARS

Popularity of the sleeve-valve type of engine, as well as the distinctive beauty that characterizes Willys-Knight cars, has created more interest than ever before in the Willys-Knight Great Six. In comfort, style and performance, the Great Six has established a conspicuous place for itself among fine cars, says Herbert Fitch, district manager, Willys-Overland Co.

Five passenger sedan, five passenger coupe, roadster and coupe make up the Willys-Knight great six line. All are equipped with wire wheels, although models with wood wheels are offered at lower prices.

Each model presents a striking style development that is emphasized by the effective color treatment employed. The comfort for which Willys-Knight cars are famous is evident in the interiors with their luxurious cushions and smart appointments.

NEW DE SOTO 6 READY SUNDAY

Enthusiasm was shown by more than 200 leading New England De Soto dealers over six new body types of De Soto Sixes displayed for the first time in the grand ballroom of the Copley-Plaza yesterday. The new cars will be given a public showing for the first time next Sunday at the various dealers' showrooms.

This was one of the largest gatherings of De Soto dealers in New England since the cars was first presented to the public nearly two years ago. Models shown included a four-door sedan, convertible coupe, de luxe coupe, touring and special roadster.

The principal speaker of the afternoon was Karl K. Bronson, director of advertising for the De Soto Corp. of Detroit, Mich. The new line of cars was described in detail by F. L. McNulty, district manager, who also dwelt upon the remarkable dealer organization which has been built up for De Soto in the brief time that the car has been on the market.

The company's plans for 1930 were discussed by Mr. Bronson, who dwelt upon the points which the makers consider responsible for making it one of the most attractive cars on the market in its price class.

One of the greatest forces behind the sale of automobiles is advertising, he said. A large percentage of sales can be traced to advertising alone, he continued.

"Advertising leads the way," he said, "and makes it easier for the salesman to complete the deal. Advertising reaches the greatest number of buyers possible in a given time and presents a message that brings the prospective owner directly to the retailer. Dealers, he said, "should not overlook the power behind advertising for it is the show window of the world and it is the only means that a large number of people have of learning of what is new."

HUDSON AGAIN WINS TROPHY

One of the hardest reliability tests in European racing annals, the "Tour de France," started on April 18, and since that day the cars and motorcycles have covered 3500 miles, over all kinds of roads. This year, weather conditions proved very adverse during the first 10 days, but the event ended in radiant sunshine.

It was organized to bring out the best all-around performance of strictly stock cars and motorcycles and included night racing, brake tests, cold starts and hill climbing, and a speed race at the end of one of the laps on the famous circuit of Le Mans. Each category of motor capacity is allotted a certain average speed which must be maintained throughout the entire grind.

An indication of the severity of this competition is afforded by the fact that of the 47 vehicles at the start, only 62 arrived back in Paris, over half of which were penalized. The highest trophy, the Ansaldo cup, known as the challenge of the "Tour de France," awarded to the car with the most outstanding performance, was won for the second year in succession by an American car, a Hudson Eight, driven by the racing veteran Andre Morel. This car teamed with an Essex, produced by the same manufacturer, also achieved the singular honor of capturing the Dunlop and Spido cups offered for the best performance of any two cars of the same make.

DRIVE YOURSELF A BUICK CAR

What do you know—of your own knowledge—about Buick quality? Can you tell why Buick has such a high resale value? Buick's 1,500,000 owners know the answers. You do not need to buy a Buick to learn these facts.

"Drive Yourself Appraisal Week" is now under way at Noyes Buick Sales Company. Any caller may select a particular model to drive in his own way at his own pace to get the true appreciation of what makes Buick outstanding in the motor industry.

"Make it a real test," urges Sales Manager C. H. Johnson. "Boston traffic in narrow streets is classed as the most difficult anywhere. Learn what real flexibility is like; why your nerves are not on edge as the Buick reacts to your guiding.

"Try the boulevard, the hill, the serpentine curves. Note how responsively the motor functions, how the brakes assure your safety as the speedometer records the facts. Appearance speaks for itself. Comfort is unchallenged."

Combines Power With Economy

A positive acting accelerating device and an automatic economizer are important features of the improved plain tube carburetors in the new Durant 6-14 and 6-17 passenger car models, according to Harry Dunn, general manager, Boston Automobile Co.

The accelerating device supplies automatically and positively the richer mixture of gasoline and air required for quick getaway. The economizer makes possible a lean, economical mixture through the normal driving range. The two features combine to give the Durant quick acceleration and low fuel consumption.

New Jersey Leads in Improved Roads

New Jersey, with 8148 miles of surfaced and 7033 miles of unsurfaced roads, has more miles of improved roads per capita than any other state in the Union.

Gas Use Mounts

More gas is consumed to keep the car running at a sixty-mile-an-hour clip than at an even speed.

USES DODGE IN AIR SERVICE

After the war birds arrive and the pilots are getting in some well-earned sleep, it is Lieutenant Walter E. Richards who must stay awake and see that the little pursuit ships of the celebrated First Pursuit Group of Selfridge Field, Mich., are in condition to be on their way at a moment's notice, says W. M. Little, general manager Massachusetts Motor Car Co.

Lieutenant Richards is the engineering officer of Selfridge Field responsible for the functioning of the more than 40 ships of the group. When the group takes to the air for cross-country maneuvers, Lieutenant Richards either precedes or follows with his picked crew of air mechanics in an army transport. In his wide and varied collection of duties, it is necessary for Lieutenant Richards to make many dashing trips to and from the various airports to the cities proper in which the pilots alight. For these trips which are all made with the least possible delay, Lieutenant Richards has selected a Dodge Brothers

you get a Super-Six

Its patented Super-Six principle gives the New Essex Challenger easy dominance over conventional Sixes. Look at the records. More than 5,000 New Essex Challengers set them. They represent local, national and world records in a great many cases. They show what any New Essex Challenger can do. No "Six" ever proved such all-around Performance, Reliability and Economy.

More Important Still Essex Keeps Its Newness for Years

In this you will appreciate the Super-Six principle. Years of driving do not make this Essex old. The pep, economy and smartness are still there. And they are there to stay.

The secret is that Essex is free from vibration. It remains tight, free from squeaks and rattles. And it saves driver and car from nerve-pounding discomforts.

Its modern, balanced design accounts for this. It includes the Super-Six principle, balanced aluminum pistons, balanced power line, from crankshaft to rear end, and the Lanchester balancer for smoothness.

Big and Roomy, Too

The new Essex Challenger is big and roomy with ample interiors and greater comfort. Beautiful interior appointments carry out the fineness and distinction of this car.

TRACE CANCERS WITH NEW DYE

Philadelphia, May 21 (AP)—Progress in the development of a dye that makes it possible to detect internal cancers in the early stages of their growth was announced here by Dr. Donald A. C. Butts, director of Emery Laboratory, Hahneman Hospital.

The discovery, he believes, provides a method of accurately detecting small cancerous growths and paves the way for prompt surgical removal or radium and X-ray treatment of cancers that have not spread too far.

The dye, which has been in secret use at the hospital for two years, is used at present only as an aid to early diagnosis, but further possibilities of the chemical are being studied.

Dr. Butts, who has devoted 12 years to cancer research, said injections of the dye, known at the laboratory as "E-247," are made directly into the veins of patients. The doses are small and are gently diluted or modified forms of the original chemical, which is a synthetic material of the xanthene dye group. The dye is bright vermillion in color.

PICK SITES FOR RADIO MARVELS OF "WIZARD"

A conference with Mayor Curley and other city officials is to be held Wednesday by representatives of the Boston Evening American and Maurice J Francill, radio engineer and inventor, for the purpose of selecting a location in the heart of the business section, where the wireless expert will operate three standard automobiles by remote control and without drivers or touch of human hand at noon Monday.

Francill is being brought to Boston by the American and Publix Theaters as an entertainment, scientific and educational feature to give exhibitions of his skill. He will be here seven consecutive days, starting Monday.

During the week he will be the vaudeville headliner at the Scollay Square Theater. On the stage at each performance and on the streets he will present an array of radio wonders never before offered in this section.

A survey of the downtown section of Boston was made the day by Francill a manager and several tentative sites for the opening exhibition were selected.

OPERATES 3 AUTOS

At the Monday open air exhibition Francill will operate two of the three automobiles at one time performing on the streets simultaneously either the identical or different operations singly, or in unison, or in any combination of numbers he may elect, or that spectators may request and actually drive them in opposite directions.

The third car, he will steer in any direction he desires. The exhibition will start promptly at 12:15 p. m. and will last for 45 minutes. Francill will visualize to his audience both the sending and receiving of his radio waves, passing his light, portable transmitter to spectators and permitting them to operate the cars as well as himself.

Francill Wednesday morning visited the main showrooms of the Standard Stores and selected three models of the new all electric Majestic Radio for [illegible] his room at the Hotel Touraine in his dressing room at the Scollay Square Theater [illegible] week's engagement here.

The third car that Francill selected Wednesday will be placed on display in the lobby of the Scollay Square Theater this and next week and on Saturday night of next week at the 8 o'clock performance at that playhouse will be given away to some fortunate patron of the theater.

During his engagement in and about Greater Boston Francill will give exhibitions in Lowell, Lawrence, Salem, Lynn, Haverhill and Quincy.

WILL DRIVE TROLLEY

It also is planned for Francill to operate a trolley car in Boston, to bake bread and probably freeze ice cream and, if satisfactory arrangements can be made, to run a steam locomotive by wireless.

On the stage of the Scollay Square theater at each performance, Francill will operate by radio a miniature battleship that does about everything a real man-of-war can do, and which symbolizes the naval warfare of the future. By radio, he also will milk a cow and will operate two standard automobiles.

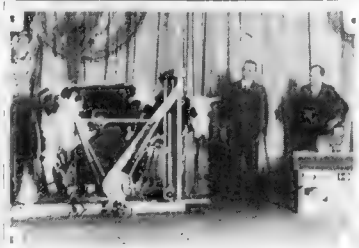
The automobiles Francill will use will be lent on and [illegible] while [illegible] be supplied to him through courtesy of the Hennessey-Kimball Co., 672 Beacon st., dealers here. Francill will select them at random from the showrooms of the Henley-Kimball company. Except for addition of about six pounds of delicate, brain-like radio apparatus to each of the automobiles, the cars will not be specially primed or prepared in any way.

Francill selected Hudson and Essex automobiles because of their ease and flexibility of engine movement and other mechanical refinements and advancements.

Francill arrived in Boston Monday night and Tuesday made his bow to residents of this city and section through medium of a five-minute talk over Station WHDH. This talk was the first of a series of seven which will be given at 12:10 p. m. each day.

In each of these talks, Francill, who is known as "America's Radio Wizard," will outline the wonderful developments which he forecasts will come to pass when "The Radio Age" is a reality.

Radio 'Milk Maid' on Job



Maurice J. Francill, radio wizard, milks a cow by wireless control, without touching Bossie with his hand. Sometimes Bossie doesn't want to be milked by radio in the presence of a whole theater full of people. So, to prevent Bossie from kicking up a rumpus, she is held securely in a "cradle," shown here. Francill will milk a cow by radio in Boston at each performance at the Scollay Square Theater next week, starting Monday. Under auspices of the Boston Evening American, he will present many other feats of radio control during his seven-day stay here.

WIFE SLAYER ON TRIAL IN N. J. ON FRIDAY

Atlantic City, N. J., May 21 (INS)—Warren E. Cliff, 27-year-old housepainter of Quincy, Mass., will be placed on trial for the murder of his pretty wife, Betty Walsh Cliff of Boston, in criminal court at Mays Landing on Friday.

Temporary insanity, partly hereditary and partly superinduced by a blasted marital romance, will be the defense.

Witnesses will be brought here all the way from Vancouver, British Columbia, Massachusetts and New York in an attempt to show Cliff was on the verge of mental collapse after searching for his wife when she disappeared from their home in Atlantic City with his entire cash [illegible].

Cliff and his young wife were both found unconscious in a pool of blood on the Boardwalk Jan. 7. He had slashed his wife's throat and his own, police said. She died on the way to the hospital.

Death of Broker Puzzles Police

Kentland, Ind., May 21 (AP)—Authorities were undecided today whether murder or suicide was the answer to the death of William Simons, 50, prominent Chicago grain broker and one time partner of former governor Warren T. McCray.

The body of Simons was found beside a highway near here yesterday. Two bullets had been fired through the back of the head and a third had entered the body just below the heart.

PROTEST BAN ON JEWS BOUND TO PALESTINE

Protests over the prospective action of Great Britain in banning immigration to Palestine continued today. Following are some of the denunciations

ALEXANDER BRIN, Jewish Advocate: "The report that England is planning to stop immigration into Palestine is too premature for extensive comment. I cannot believe England will destroy the good-will created by a policy of friendly Zionism as expressed in the Balfour declaration.

The Jews of the world have been concentrating their efforts for the past 10 years in rebuilding the country. The expenditure of approximately $20,000,000 in economic, sanitary and cultural work has been tending to facilitate the establishment of a Jewish homeland in the Holy Land.

"I cannot see how England can suddenly attempt a policy of checking the flow of a population who are helping to build up a great civilization in a country neglected for thousands of years.

"The international leaders of the Zionist movement under the guidance of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, are taking the necessary steps in calling the attention of British officials to their unwise policy.

MAX SHOOLMAN: "In the past five years I have made three trips to Palestine and I will say on my last visit I found conditions greatly improved. The people were happy and business and social conditions were of the best.

"Now I learn today that the British government has cancelled 3400 certificates of immigration which have been already issued. This means that many people, already on their way to Palestine, will be refused admittance there on their arrival. This is a rank outrage. Many of these people can scarcely afford the expenses of this journey and such a procedure is certainly high-handed toward them."

The committee is a voluntary organization working for the prevention of organized crime and commercialized vice "through the elimination of character destroying influences."

SECRET DECREE FOR WIFE OF SCIENTIST

A secret divorce obtained in Middlesex Court by Mrs. Frederick R. Wulsin, wife of the former Harvard scientist, has freed her from the man who, last winter, obtained a Mexican divorce and married the society matron Mrs. Wulsin named as co-respondent.

The dramatic climax of the broken romance was revealed yesterday when it was learned that on May 6, Mrs. Wulsin was granted her divorce decree a private hearing by Judge Leggat.

Mrs Wulsin charged her husband, former assistant curator at Peabody Museum, with unfaithfulness. She named Suzanne C. Emery, Providence society woman, once a frequent guest at the Wulsin home.

Mrs Emery became the bride of Wulsin last February, soon after the Mexican divorce decree had been awarded to the professor. They spent a long honeymoon in Bermuda, and are now living in New York.

At the time of her husband's remarriage Mrs. Wulsin declared she would contest the validity of the Mexican divorce.

She filed her divorce suit on February 10, charging that her husband was guilty of misconduct.

She will be graduated June 17.

FLOOD DANGER SPREADS IN LOUISIANA

New Orleans, May 21 (AP)—Flood waters spread farther today over farmlands in northwest Louisiana, but began to recede in the Greenwood section of Mississippi.

Farmers in northern sections of Caddo Parish said the flood was the worst from headwaters they ever had seen.

John Cissell, planter, said possibly 25,000 acres would be covered with water.

Little Rock, Ark., May 21 (AP)—Confronted by continued rises in the Ouachita and Red rivers and smaller tributaries, swamp the Red Cross today reinforced volunteer relief corps for any eventuality as the crest of flood waters slowly moved toward the inundated areas.

Refugees grew in number in the Calion area on the Ouachita river, 20 miles north of Eldorado, while farther down the stream at Felsenthal residents had made fast their furniture in their homes, and with a few personal belongings had fled to ask shelter of relief agencies.

Other Harbor News

Today we want to call attention to an achievement of 15-year-old Richard Nickerson of Milton. Three years ago he was placed on board the Jeannet Skinner as a deck boy by Harrington Pike of the U. S. Sea Service Bureau. This was the boy's first voyage.

A few days ago the youngster returned from a cruise in the Orient and won his license as third mate. He came into port on the motorship Triumph and is spending a few days with the family in Milton. Richard is regarded as one of the brightest of the young mates and his chief regards old timers of the times when Maine boys of that age commanded their own clipper ships.

Today J. J. Kelaher of Lever Brothers of Cambridge is supervising the pumping of about 400 tons of palm oil from the Breedyn. The ship, for whom Patterson, Webbs & Co. are agents, brought the oil from Sumatra. This shipment brings to light the little publicized fact that palm oil and cocoanut oil have been coming into the harbor fairly rapidly in the past year or so. John G. Hall Co. has had considerable palm oil, while the Rogers & Webb boats have been bringing much cocoa oil. The firm of Procter & Gamble has received large quantities of these oils for soap manufacturing, also.

Floating Refuse Harbor Menace

Small Craft Damaged in Collisions With Crates and Barrels

Motor boat and yacht owners will soon start a campaign to keep the harbor clear of floating refuse.

Complaints are being made that submerged barrels and crates are causing damage to propellers and rudders on small craft.

The Noyes Marine Company which maintains a motor boat service, has lost several wheels in collision with drifting refuse. Motor boat and yacht enthusiasts are disturbed over the situation which is said to be becoming rapidly worse.

Last Saturday morning the ship news editor of the Boston American was invited to make an inspection. A dozen barrels, containing fish heads, etc., were counted just off the fish pier.

This refuse is also attracting attention of state health authorities, for the stuff usually floats ashore at some bathing beach.

The harbor clean up drive is expected to take the form of a demand for prosecution of persons caught dumping within harbor limits.

Today's Who's Who

Today we present John T. Lane, manager of the customs department of R. B. Payne Co.

In charge of foreign imports, "Jack" Lang has the distinction of being the key man for a concern which imports the most foreign merchandise in the port of Boston.

"Jack" is a graduate of two noted schools in foreign commerce, that of Boston University and Stone & Downer Co. At B. U. he was graduated from the foreign trade course with highest honors. He certainly knows his customs tariff and regulations.

CARL MORRISON, Editor

Vol. 2 No. 18

We have heard of a whist club recently organized by Mickey Leary that seems destined to become famous. Mickey is a 100 per cent whist enthusiast and cannot be coaxed into any of the other card games.

Ned Hanlon, who also speaks about the club all over the waterfront, has been chosen president. Paddy Wall is vice-president and Ed Landrigan is secretary. Mike Furey has no opposition as sergeant at arms. Mickey for some reason received the office as treasurer for himself.

Today's Safety Rule

Rule No. 19 of the marine safety code reads:

"When deck loads of lumber extend above the bulwarks there shall be a pennant of sufficient length to preclude the necessity of sending a workman down the ships side to secure or release the boom guy from the deck ring bolt."

Diary of Modern Mariner

Today our modern mariner was late. He made only three entries in his book of memories.

"Pell cold sandwich and turned around to see Paddy Goffney, of South Boston, better known as Windy. Heard he is practicing wrestling as a means of self defense against someone in his neighborhood. Saw E. Cotter, otherwise known as Spark Plug, who is a favorite on the waterfront. Heard a big crash and ducked just as Tom 'Wildman' St. Clair swept by. He is back after a long journey and everyone is making room on the sidewalks. Was told to add the name of Jerry Donovan to the list of ex-boxers recently published." . . .

Just a Little Rock

The U. S. engineers are plugging on the job and no secret has been known to drop their compasses and fight. Two additional attempts to blast away the rock in the harbor entrance which must be removed to float Mickey Mouse's new submarine which appropriation had dropped a splice. The engineers have become interested and are going to yank the rock out of the bottom even though it is not a little one. Divers will probably go down and see things up.

Page Mayor Curley

We recently sent the cub reporter out on another assignment and he did just that one up.

"Had the pleasure of hearing Harold Greene, of East Boston, better known as 'Do-Dat,' rehearse some of his new hits.

Mayor Curley really owes his election to 'Do Dat,' who was the Curley song plugger of the recent campaign. Curley won by only 20,000, and 'Do-Dat's' voice probably influenced at least that number."

Building a Flagship

While at Quincy Saturday watching Mayor Curley and Lieut. Gov. Youngman do their stuff like old times at the riveting gun on the keel of the Matson liner we learned that the Bethlehem yard has another big job.

About the end of this year the new flagship Borinquen of the Puerto Rico line is due to be completed. She is to be a sister vessel for fast passenger and freight runs between New York and southern ports. She will cost $4,800,000 and is only one of several new ships to be built for the Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies steamship lines at a cost of about $13,000,000.

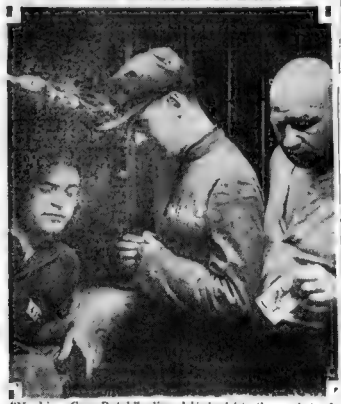
The BIG House

A Thrilling Drama of Life and Love, Baring Prison Life Horrors

By JACK LAIT

(Adapted from the screenplay by Francis Marion and George B. Hill. A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Cosmopolitan production.)

Kent Is Thrown Into a Cell With Two Others—Saved From Hands of Butch



"Machine Gun Butch" slipped his hand into the pocket of Kent's coat and palmed a package of cigarettes. The latter calls the guard and is saved from a beating by Morgan.

In the first chapter of "The Big House" we meet Duncan Morgan, a good-looking young man who was sent to jail for his third "stretch." Morgan was a robber. He got away with crime for a while, but the cops were too fast for him. Next we meet Dan Ward Kent. On a wild New Year's eve party his drunken driving results in a terrible smashup. Kent is found guilty of manslaughter, as one girl was killed, and is sent to the BIG House for seven years. Anne is heartbroken.

CHAPTER 3

Machine Gun Butch Schmidt, gangster and killer, was holding forth on his favorite topic—murder. His activities in that line were indefinitely curtailed, as he was doing "the book in stir," but he liked to talk about his former exploits. He had plenty to remember. He had killed his share. And for death they had given him life.

"Be happy — that's me motto," Machine Gun Butch was saying, as he sat on the edge of his bunk in Cell No. 329, Section B. "And whenever you go out to clip a guy always have your head about you—see? Dey wouldn't a-got me if I hada's o' look that last swig o' swill dey called gin. Why, I chipped dem three guys from a taxi like nobody could-o' clipped 'em. Eh, Morg?'

He butted his head against the top of his bunk, which was the bottom of Duncan Morgan's. Morgan, who was lying with his face to the wall, merely snorted. He was doing a bit of active thinking, too. Usually he enjoyed Butch's macabre humor. But tonight a queer mood was on him and he was thinking of what his life might have been—with the right woman.

'Good Old Scout'
Sorry He Killed Sadie

On the subject of women he and Butch could find no common ground. To the killer a broad was a broad—and that was as broad as it was long. He sometimes recalled with a bit of sly sentimentality that 'Sadie was a good old scout." And he lamented the fact that he had "croaked her with that ant poison." And he would sigh.

Butch was a giant of a man —his heart harder than his muscles. His sense of humor was usually of such a vicious nature that it easily turned into brutal fury. He was liked and feared by the men. He bullied them and inspired in them a hatred for the prison guards. To those he was sardonically polite. He appeared always smiling, humble and obedient in their presence, but the minute they were out of sight he called it down on them the damnations of the devil. Butch had launched into his slaughter of the Mulligan brothers and how he had wiped out the De Lacey gang, when the keen ear of Morgan heard the footsteps of several men in the corridor. They grew nearer and paused in front of his prison door.

"Here's your bunk, Kid," said Sandy, the guard, and he opened the door.

Kent, seeing the size of the cell and the size of Butch, who seemed to completely occupy it, hesitated. The guard pushed him in and shut and snapped the door.

Kent caught the bars of the cell and peered through. He made as if he would cry out in protest.

"Hello, Kid," greeted Butch grinning. Then he batted the bunk above with his head. "Look down here, Morg, there's company in the parlor."

Robbed of His Cigarettes

Kent turned and surveyed the small cell with its three hanks one above the other its three pegs for the clothes, and its solitary lot of furnishing—a large slop bucket. He looked into the evil eyes of Butch, beneath their shaggy awnings, and then into the steady, sympathetic eyes of Morgan, who had turned over for a peep.

"Make yourself right at home, Kid," said the garrulous Butch, waving his huge paw. "That's your Pullman up there. Plenty o' fresh air and a good view of the slop jar. Gonna be with us long? What you in for?"

"Manslaughter. It was—" began Kent, tossing his blanket and mattress in the top bunk.

"Oh, no bad—put her there," enthused Butch, offering his hand.

"It was an accident," finished Kent.

"An accident!" and Butch crinned in a knowing way. 'Hey, Morg, this guy ain't so panny, no matter how he looks."

"My car hit another—"

"Oh-h-h!" and Butch's tone was contemptuous. "So

DIVORCED, BUT STILL GOOD FRIENDS

Raps Worcester Mayor in Power Debate

MRS. STURGES WINS PARIS DECREE

Marriage of Boston Man and Baltimore Girl a Society Event Four Years Ago

Unable to agree but still good friends, Thomas Rush Sturgis, Boston social registerite, and Mrs. Olivia Wheeler Sturgis of Baltimore, have been divorced in Paris, it was learned today.

Mrs. Walter Knight Sturgis of 282 Beacon st., confirmed the report of the divorce, adding that although the couple had agreed to a severance of their matrimonial bonds, they are still the best of friends.

They are a charming couple," said Mrs. Sturgis, "but decided that they would be better off apart. The decision was mutual and they are on the best of terms with each other.

"My son is remaining in Paris I don't know when he will return."

The civil separation was granted by the Paris courts to young Mrs. Sturges on the grounds of desertion. It is understood a religious annulment is under way in the Versailles diocese on the ground that Miss Wheeler, a Protestant, went through a Catholic marriage ceremony in Baltimore, with mental reservations.

According to the elder Mrs. Sturges, they met in Boston in 1924 when Miss Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Wheeler of Baltimore, was visiting a cousin in this city.

The wedding took place in October of 1925, the ceremony being performed at the Belvedere Hotel, Baltimore, by the Rev. Louis O'Donovan, pastor of St. Martin's Catholic Church.

The marriage was one of the social events of the season, and following it the young couple set forth for a honeymoon in France. They established themselves in Paris as entertaining lavishly, and soon played a prominent part in the life of the international social world.

Sturges, a graduate of Harvard apparently found this existence boring, for he began to study with a view to entering the diplomatic service.

Later he went to Madrid to visit his uncle, then United States ambassador, Orden H. Hammond while Mrs. Sturges returned to America.

Fair and Warmer Weather for Hub

The cool wave is over, the weather man said today, for tonight and tomorrow the mercury will rise to the 60s and 70s.

An area of dry, warm weather extending from the Rocky mountains and through the Mississippi valley will bring the warmth, he said. The wind was blowing from the northwest today but promises a change toward westerly and probably to southwest by tomorrow.

MALDEN BIDS FAREWELL TO HER GUESTS

English Visitors Leave City Today After Taking Part in Tercentenary Fete

Mayor and Mrs. Arthur Lawrence Clarke of Malden, England, official guests of the city of Malden during its tercentenary observances, leave Malden late this afternoon for New York and tomorrow they will proceed to Washington, where they will be guests of Congressman Charles L. Underhill of Somerville.

They will be presented to both the Senate and House of Representatives and also have an audience with President Hoover.

On the eve of their departure correspondents who have been reporting the tercentenary observances in Malden, presented the English mayor and his wife with a scrapbook containing more than a hundred newspaper photos of events of tercentenary week, together with the newspaper clippings from all of the newspapers making the occurrence.

The tercentenary committee presented Mayor and Mrs. Clarke each with white gold wrist watches. Several trunks full of presents from Malden organizations will be carried back to Maldon.

Mayor and Mrs. Clarke will sail from New York, the boat touching at Boston en route home.

HIS RECORD SHAMEFUL, SAYS WHITE

O'Hara Is Attacked in House for Lack of Interest in Trust Probe

Rep. Michael J. O'Hara of Waltham was the subject of bitter attack during debate in the House today when the Democrats attempted to substitute an adverse committee report at a hill designed to bring about lower fights.

"The answer he (O'Hara) is written out of the Republican party and leaves Worcester, the heart of the party and the city will be," said Representative Joseph C. White of Boston.

Speaking in support of the bill introduced by Representative Leo M. Birmingham of Boston, Rep. White attacked Mayor O'Hara for his alleged lack of interest in the power trust investigating commission to which he was appointed by the Governor.

BIG CAMPAIGN ISSUE

"Mayor O'Hara should hang his head in shame," said Representative White, "because he showed so little interest in the investigation after having been appointed to it by the governor. Millions of dollars to consumers were saved more than $600,000 through forced rate reduction."

Representative Birmingham's bill would bring about a contract between gas and electric light companies under which their would agree to reduce the returns on the amount of money put into plants.

Representative Birmingham said the power companies were the most potent influence in politics and said he had a big issue in the election next fall if the bill, as opposed by the public utilities, he said, there will be no need for the municipal light bill passed by the House the other day.

CITES BIG DIVIDENDS

The latter, however, he said, were attended with the Massachusetts Legislature of a fair return on capital invested. When O'Fallon, decision was rendered they saw an opportunity to milk the public through reproduction costs.

The stockholders knew when they put their money into these investments that they were to get only a fair return. Some of the companies are making profits as high as 50 per cent on their books."

Representative Henry L. Shattuck of Boston said he was against substitution on the ground the bill is premature. He felt assured if the state would be wise to make a thorough study.

The substitute was voted down by a vote of 85 to 50 in the House. The original bill then engrossed and sent to the Senate.

COMB ROXBURY FOR ATTACKER

A man who attacked at least one girl and made several attempts to entrap others, was sought by Dudley at police division 1.

The victim, a 12 year old child, is under the care of a physician, in a serious condition.

Two other girls of about the same age reported to the police today that a man nearing the same description as the first girl's assailant attempted to lure them into a house in Gertrude st., Roxbury.

As a result, the entire Dudley school was aroused, and mothers were keeping a close watch on their children. The first report received by the police was from the mother of the little girl who said she had been accosted in Roxbury st., by a man about 25 years old wearing a blue sweater.

Victim of Fiend

Inspectors Aid in Garrett Case

Inspector Joseph Decker and Special Officer Joseph McBride of police headquarters were loaned to Dist. Atty. William J. Foley today to aid in preparation of graft charges against ex-former Patrolman Oliver B. Garrett and others scheduled for presentation to the grand jury next month.

Foley today questioned Harry P. Alden, former manager of the Hotel Ritz, Michael J. McCormack, once a headwaiter there, Special Officer Wade Higgins, who was a custodian of liquor seizures at headquarters and John Slattery, former station clerk of the liquor squad.

Salem Boy Injured in 3-Story Plunge

Young Teachman was playing on the veranda, and lost his balance falling over the guard railing. Upon arrival the police found Dr. Janatius Zelenski, giving the injured

Raiders Too Active; Speakeasy Owner Closes Shop

Activity of the police raiders against liquor resorts has proved too strong for one speakeasy proprietor. He telephoned to Capt. Herbert W. Goodwin at the La Grange st. station and informed him that he was going out of business, closing up for good."

The speakeasy in question located on Harrison ave. has been visited by the police at least a dozen times since the drive began about a week ago. Sometimes the place has been visited two or three times. On each occasion the officers, although they found no booze, removed the heavily-barricaded door and took them in the station. Modern police also removed the bar and all other equipment.

Warrants for 2 in Chinese Holdup

On word from Chicago today warrants for two Chinese with many aliases were given to Dist. Atty. Foley's office for extradition of the two on charges of attempted robbery while armed. The men have been sought since Tom Ching Soo restaurant proprietor of 8 Tyler st., said he was held up as he was they ran away $500 on the night of April 5. In the warrant they are named as Moy Guet Chan and Moy Kip Chung.

Dashing into the police station in Chicago they confessed to be arrested, saying they were innocent.

Natalie Shaw on Bill at Mah Jong

DeRosa and Foyle will be seen in ballroom waltzing. Ann Peters is mistress of ceremonies and Sam Rittell with his orchestra will provide the music.

PARKING FOR 10 CENTS A DAY

Owner of an automobile without motor or tires—yet he travels the world over every day.

Owner of no house—yet he dwells in a one-man cottage and is lord of five and a half acres.

He is John J. Hurley of Randolph, and friend of the barred parker.

On a five and a half acre lot bounded by St. Stephen, Hemenway and Forsyth sts. in the Fenway Hurley runs an open air parking space on rises in an ancient car equipped with a stove and the most meagre of necessary comforts.

Friend of the parker and the low salaried man, he has shaved his price down to 10 cents a day for all day parking, and as soon as he acquires 100 more cars for his parking, making a total of 500, he will reduce his price further to $2 a month, or approximately 7 cents a day.

"Why should I charge them any more?" he queried the reporter today. "Most of my customers are working fellows. At 10 cents a day, I make a profit. Why not give the other fellow a break?"

It was only but not a week ago, that after the morning rush to park cars and until the evening rush to get out car began, that Hurley ran his lot. Then an inventive reader, keen for places in his sedan through the print, word of it went broad.

And when he is hungry he cooks his meals on his stove in the open.

Girl Lays Downfall to Her "Easy Money"

Raising her downfall on a $500 legacy that gave her a craving for more finer things after the money was spent, Virginia Anderson 22 of Springfield was in Charles st. jail today after her appearance in court on charges of larceny from a Race Bay hotel.

She contracted a bill of $2500, according to the complaint, and left the hotel without paying. She was arrested at the Y. W. C. A. by Police Inspector John Toomey.

HULTMAN URGES PUBLIC TO HELP HIM CLEAN OUT BOSTON CRIME

POLICE HEAD IN RADIO ADDRESS

Cites Changes and Says He Is Not Yet Through With His Shakeup

A plea that all citizens having a knowledge of law violations transmit such information to him personally was made by Police Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman in a talk over WHDH last night as guest of the Boston Evening American at the regular 6:45 p. m. broadcast.

In a speech replete with commendation for the cooperation afforded him by police officers since his appointment as Commissioner, also stood for suggestions for the improvement of police.

Commissioner Hultman said:

"We have in Boston, as a whole, one of the finest police departments in the country. Most of our members are keen and alert and take their responsibilities seriously.

DUTY TO CITIZENS

"Some changes have already been made in the organization of the department. I hope to make more from time to time which will improve the service which the people are paying for, and which they have a right to expect from the police department.

"I want you to know that the police commissioner's first duty to the citizens of Boston is the preservation of their lives and property; his second duty is to look after the welfare of the officers performing this service.

"I am meeting with excellent co-operation from the force up to date.

"The police department cannot successfully cope with this situation without the sincere and honest co-operation of the citizens whom it serves, and it should not be forced to depend upon anonymous communists from people who have not the courage to sign their own names, for its outside assistance.

THANKS AMERICAN

"I ask all citizens who have knowledge of violations of the law, or who have suggestions to make for the improvement of the service, that they transmit them to the Commissioner, in writing. Kindly sign all communications with proper names and addresses, and the communications will be treated as strictly confidential if so desired.

"I wish to thank the Boston Evening American for this opportunity to present very briefly a few of the problems confronting the police department of Boston."

Radio Puzzler Warns of New Obstacle

Today's Tercentenary Radio Mystery Message derives its origin from the assembly of the First Continental Congress.

On a warm day in the early part of September, 1774 delegates from 12 British-American provinces assembled in Philadelphia and organized a Continental Congress, having for their object the consideration of the political state of the colonies and obtaining relief from oppression. Very few had aspirations yet for political independence.

Peyton Randolph, graduate of William and Mary College who had been at one time attorney-general for the Province, was elected President. Both [illegible] dressed in [illegible] and solemn of mien when a [illegible] was to [illegible] high in the annals of our Republic's history.

When he had finished that memorial speech to the Congress, a veritable tornado of applause was heard and from lip to lip the question was passed: "Who is he?"

Patrick Henry of Virginia had entered history's scroll.

The Mystery Messenger claims that everyone should solve yesterday's message, but that today's, the tenth, is more difficult. He warns us all that this week he will discontinue publishing the quotation in the paper. Only the picture clue to the missing word will appear. So it will be absolutely necessary for you to listen to the broadcasting of the message very carefully.

In today's Boston Evening American, the clue to the tenth mystery message is published.

Be sure and read the simple conditions carefully and who knows but what these mystery messages may mean money for you.

SENTENCED FOR $1560 THEFT

Carl Grant, former employe of the H. B. Lavermore Co., [illegible] was sentenced to two years in the House of Correction by Judge Burns in Suffolk Superior Court after being found guilty of the larceny of $1560 of company funds.

Officials testified that during a two-year period they had lost $8000 and believed that Grant had taken that amount.

Wife Wins Divorce From Lynn Ex-Mayor

Mrs. Marion E. McPhetres, wife of Harland A. McPhetres, former mayor of Lynn, was granted a decree by Judge Alex P. White in [illegible] County Probate Court [illegible] on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment, with custody of a minor child. The action was not contested by Lynn-former chief executive.

BIRTH CONTROL MOVE FLAYED AND LAUDED

Catholic Women Leaders Call It Degrading; Mrs. Tilton Claims Economic Need

The birth control resolution adopted by the 103th annual convention of the American Unitarian Association was denounced today by Greater Boston women as "degrading to womanhood."

According to Mrs. Colin MacDonald, State Democratic committeewoman and mother of four children, the resolution is "a move to reduce women to the level of beasts."

"This doctrine," she asserted, "is neither scientific nor sound. It is degrading to womanhood and breaks down human decency and woman's self-respect."

The resolution, offered by the Rev. Dr. Minot Simons, pastor of All Souls' Unitarian Church of New York, was almost unanimously adopted by the convention at Tremont Temple yesterday.

"Mothers of young daughters should try to counteract such talk," Mrs. MacDonald said. "This is a matter that not only church members but all self-respecting laity will examine carefully, for countenancing such a theory means striking at the roots of civilization and the home."

Mrs. Frank Scanlan, president of the Margaret Brent Civic Guild of Boston, representing 2000 members, declared:

"The church is the one place that people look for uplift and moral support. We certainly do not expect to find men who are preaching the doctrine of Jesus Christ promulgating pagan propaganda that would place women who accept it in the position they occupied before the coming of Christ."

Mrs. William F. Tilton, chairman of the constitutional defense committee, said:

"It is a question that will have to be settled if we would avoid the situation of India or China with their starving millions for statistics show that our food supply will not take care of our increased population 100 years hence."

WILL REVEAL ROMANCES

Stand' Or run around the table!

Wellesley College seniors will hold their traditional class dinner on June 16, when new engagement rings will flash, secret weddings will be revealed, and Cupid will come down his hiding place under the table.

On this occasion, according to tradition, engaged girls rise and in turn [illegible] stand [illegible] Brides run around the table.

A dozen girls have already been married out of the class of 1930 and one bride is still in school. How many secret brides are still class members is a matter of conjecture.

Sixteen girls in the class have announced their engagements, but it is suspected that many more are secretly betrothed with the secret due for exposure at the dinner.

Evelyn Peirce of Rockford, Ill., will preside at the dinner. Among the seniors whose engagements have already been announced are Dorothy Rollins of Brookline, Katherine Johnson of Cambridge, Betty Beury, editor-in-chief of the College News; Ruth Banister, secretary of the senior class; Betty Gilbert, Virginia Law, Barbara Cook, Mary L. Sinton, Marion Thompson, Alice Trotter, Jane Hemingway, May Muskimon, Katherine Rosenthal, Margaret Stean and Margaret Milne.

MAYOR PLEASED AT GOV. SQ. BILL

While declining to comment officially, Mayor Curley today was frankly pleased over the showing made by advocates of the Governor sq. traffic improvement before the House Ways and Means committee.

Proponements of the plan for a trolley car subway beneath the square expressed the belief that the legislators in whose hands the fate of the measure now lies were favorably impressed by arguments for the bill.

Under the measure as already passed by the Senate, the city would be authorized to issue bonds for $3,100,000 for the subway.

Corporation Counsel Samuel Silverman, who represented the mayor at the hearing, reported that the outlook was favorable, and Mayor Curley was gratified with the support given by other speakers to his request that arrangements be made to do the job on a day labor basis.

The city transit department has made a study which enables it to give assurance that if the work is started this summer arrangements can be made so that traffic through the square, even with Tercentenary crowds here, would not be greatly interfered with.

The mayor was loath to comment with the measure still pending, in view of legislative objection to his previous efforts to obtain passage of bills of benefit to Boston.

Tercentenary Design to be Used on City Checks

The city has adopted a special design for its official checks this year, the background depicting the reception accorded by William Blaxton to Gov. John Winthrop, Anne Pollard and their Puritan followers.

The engraving is a copy of the bronze to be erected on the Common as a memorial to the founders. The sculptor is John F. Paramino. The first 24 checks printed were made out in special Old English lettering for $1 each and sent as souvenirs by City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan to Mayor and Mrs. Curley, Governor and Mrs. Allen and other prominent individuals.

Phone Company Plans Construction

Calls on Unitarian Mothers to Be Modern

Unitarian women were called upon today at Tremont Temple to "entertain ideas just as challenging as those of your daughters."

The exhortation was made by Mrs. Vivian T. Pomeroy of Milton, addressing 500 women delegates to the 105th anniversary meeting of the American Unitarian Association.

Today was turned over to the women's organizations, which celebrated the 50th anniversary of the founding of the General Alliance of Unitarian and Other Liberal Christian Women.

Annual reports were read by the president, Mrs. Thomas G. Reese; the secretary, Miss Bertha Langman; the treasurer, Miss Louise Brown, and for the auditing committee by Mrs. Charles M. Baker.

Mrs. Frank S. Eliott, chairman of the Peace and Social Service committee, reported on steps taken by committee in the manner of joining the National Conference for Cause and Cure of War, but recommended that because of high dues in this organization, the Unitarian women confine their work to their own organization.

Mrs. Pomeroy, addressing the women on "The Dangerous Age," warned that because they have reached the 50th birthday, they should not "fall back on your oars but should continue to progress and should entertain ideas just as challenging as those of your daughter." She declared the youth of today must not think of religion "as an umbrella to save them soon the challenging rays of outside criticism, nor should they look upon religion as a solace for their old age."

The Rev. Howard B. Bard of California also addressed the women.

Girl and Parents Beaten, Man Held

Charged with beating two women and the husband of one, Clifford E. Spence, 35, of Broad st., Lynn, was arrested last night and held in $500 for appearance in Lynn district court this morning.

The warrant charges Spence with punching Frederick C. Smith of Burrill st., Swampscott, in the face when Smith paid him the rent and asked for a receipt. When Mrs. Smith asked the reason, Spence, it is alleged, struck her and also her daughter, Ellen, 20.

Voting Bill O. K.'d by Governor Allen

Governor Allen has signed a bill providing for the registration of voters who are in line at the time of the closing hour for such registrations. Each person waiting in line will be furnished with an identification card which will entitle him to be registered.

END SESSIONS OF COAL MEN

The New England Coal Dealers' Association concludes its 36th annual three-day convention with a luncheon for attending members today at the New Ocean House, Swampscott.

The conclave revealed that there is a rapidly increasing demand for coke as a household fuel. Robert P. Thoit, prominent executive, pointed out that this situation has followed a nationwide educational campaign which stressed developments in manufacture rendering coke non-clinkering and practically ashless.

Speakers at today's luncheon include: Gordon C. Cooke, of the D. L. & W. Coal Co., New York; F. W. Wagner, Lehigh Valley Coal Sales Co., and Louis B. Gallison, Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Co.

Adoption of new by-laws, election of officers and presentation of prizes to winners of golf and bridge matches conclude the program, President W. A. Clark will make the award.

FATHER OF SLAIN LOWELL GIRL COLLAPSES ON WITNESS STAND

UNNERVED BY PICTURE OF DAUGHTER

New Jersey Man on Trial on Charge of Murdering Two at Wedding

Shaking with sobs as he viewed a photo of his slain daughter, John Silva, of Clark ct., Lowell, collapsed today on the witness stand in Middlesex Court during the trial of Joaquin Pita Soaris of New Jersey, charged with double murder.

Soaris is on trial before Judge James H. Sisk and a jury for the murder of Angelina Rodriguez, 17, and Matilda Silva, 16, bridesmaid and flower girl, respectively, at a Lowell wedding in March.

Silva had traced the movements of Soaris under direct examination by Attorney Joseph Linharez when he was taken over by District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell for cross-examination.

"Is this your daughter?" Bushnell queried, handing a photo to the father.

His answer, Yes," was broken in sobs and kisses showered on the picture, and he broke down. Bushnell excused him.

Silva, in his direct examination, told of the defendant staying at another apartment in the Silva house and testified that he left for the railroad station Saturday night, March 8, 20 hours before the fatal shooting.

SAW RATSHESKY TAKE OFFICE

Speaking in the warmest terms of the part America played in the independence of Czechoslovakia, President Masaryk welcomed at Prague on May 2 the newly appointed minister for the United States, Abraham C. Ratshesky of Boston.

"The new representative of the United States was received by President Masaryk in the old castle in Prague," reports Rev. John S. Porter of Gilead, Ct., who for the past 39 years has been working under the American board of commissioners for foreign missions in Czechoslovakia.

"Minister Ratshesky addressed the president in English, and President Masaryk replied in English. The whole ceremony was very unusual and impressive," continues Mr. Porter.

"Ratshesky's carriage was preceded by mounted cavalrymen and soldiers lined the sides of the street leading up to the castle. At the entrance to the castle grounds stood two divisions of the castle guard to do honor to America's representative, while the band played America's national hymn."

BABY CARRIAGE 'INVALID CHAIR' HELPS BOY

Youngster Crippled in Fall Is Pushed to Medford School Every Day by Pal

Practical thinkers and juvenile men of originality are Henry Patturelli of 12 George st., Medford, and Jimmie Montgomery of 25 Martin st., Medford, and as a result both will be promoted to the third grade

Henry and Jimmie are each 7 years old and are old-time pals. For three or four years Jimmie and I went well until Henry tumbled out of a tree and snapped a bone in his leg.

It was almost a certainty that because of his misfortune, Henry was scheduled to fall a class here of his mates when promotions were in order because his doctor told Henry he would be out of school the rest of the year.

JIMMIE, THE THINKER

The [illegible] Jimmie [illegible] Jimmie—thank. He took himself to quiet places and consulted those depths of thought so responsive to the currypings of a boy in a tight spot

Then he went back to Henry and asked him if he was sure he wanted to go back to school

"Sure I do," said Henry.

It was enough for Jimmie. He went into the cellar, dug around in odds and ends of furniture and this and that—and finally emerged with a dusty, paint chipped and time-scarred baby carriage of the type known as a stroller

WIN PROMOTIONS.

Carefully he cleaned it up and the next morning, early, arrived in front of Henry's home and called for him

And so Henry went to school riding in state in the discarded stroller, with Jimmie as motive power. They have gone to school in this fashion every day since.

Miss Katherine Callahan teaches the second grade, and today that Henry and Jimmie will be numbered there to the third grade

OUSTER THREAT FOR HASTINGS

If Mayor William A. Hastings does not appear before the Malden board of aldermen next Friday night Alderman Elmer B Chesley will ask impeachment

Threat of impeachment proceedings was made following a lengthy debate over the board of health in which Frederick Wainwright and Edward B Convery at last night's hearing

The mayor has declared the services of health inspectors are not needed, and late yesterday City Comptroller J. A. Galvin notified the board of health that funds providing salaries for the two inspectors are exhausted, and no money will be paid them after next Friday

The board of health has appealed to the State department of health

Malden health officials claim the work of inspectors is vital to the health of the city, regardless of the mayor's attitude

A special meeting of the board of aldermen has been called Friday, and Mayor Hastings has been asked to attend

Dr. Carol Bulpee has aroused considerable public sympathy in the case by addressing civic organizations, and resolutions from many societies have urged the government to retain the present health inspectors

COUNCIL FAILS TO APOLOGIZE TO RUSSELL

Insult to Cambridge Mayor Is Upheld and Veto on Fire Prevention Overridden

Mayor Richard E Russell of Cambridge saw an "orgy of opposition" completed early today when the Cambridge City Council ended an all-night session with the tercentenary "insult" upheld, a veto overridden and his put over for a week.

The "insult" inflicted last week when the tercentenary committee was referred to sewer and drainage experts for approval, was allowed to stand when the council rejected by 8 to 5 a proposal to apologize to the mayor.

Councillor Patrick J. Delaney, father of the order which dealt the figurative slap at the city's chief executive, [illegible] opposed Councillor Benjamin Wyeth's resolve for an apology.

Delaney made it clear that the "insult" construed in his measure was no intended.

On the defeat of Wyeth's motion, Councillor Shea introduced another to provide for an apology by Delaney, but the measure was killed.

Mayor Russell's first veto, that of the establishment of a fire prevention bureau, was overriden at the same meeting. The measure was passed last week in the council and was returned last night with the mayor's disapproval. The overriding vote was 10 to 5

In a further effort to oust City Treasurer Henry F. Lehan, the mayor submitted the name of Major Wayland M. Minot for approval to the post. Consideration was put over until next week's meeting with many in the council predicting its rejection

GIRLS IN LAWN FETE AT DAWN

Color and pageantry and Goldilocks and the three bears—in the Fenway at 6 a. m. gave early morning motorists and pedestrians a bit of a start today.

The activities were incidental to a strawberry shortcake breakfast given by the sophomores to the senior class at Simmons College in a tardy observance of May Day. While the sun was just creeping up over the horizon and tinting in the wet grass, the sophomores serenaded the seniors, calling to the seniors to come out and join the sophomores on the lawn.

MARY PICKFORD TO PUT 'SECRETS,' NEW SCREEN VEHICLE ON STAGE

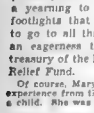
WOULD AID RELIEF FUND

By LODELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service

Copyright, 1930 by Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, MAY 21—Mary Pickford has a grand and glorious idea that she is now developing. Her plan is to put "Secrets," her present screen vehicle, on the stage and play in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and probably New York. It isn't a yearning to return to the footlights that inspires Mary to go to all this trouble, but an eagerness to add to the treasury of the Motion Picture Relief Fund.

Of course, Mary has had stage experience from five times she was a child. She was with David Belasco about 10 years ago in "A Good Little Devil," but Mary has always been as closely identified with motion pictures as any of the pioneers who have helped them grow up into what they are today.



Louella O. Parsons

Staging "Secrets" will be less difficult than staging any other play for Miss Pickford has the costumes, she has learned the lines and she has her company. Of course, she will have to borrow Kenneth McKenna from the Fox Company, but I reckon that could be developed.

SECRETLY AND QUIETLY First National has gone about purchasing the film rights in "Sunny" for Marilyn Miller. "Sally" was such a tremendous success that Jack Warner felt if he could get another one of her popular stage plays he would be assured of a box office winner. The rights to "Sunny" are owned by Joseph Schenck, who purchased it about three years ago with the idea of either starring Constance Talmadge or Corinne Griffith in the heroine role. Mr Schenck recently tried to borrow Miss Miller for "Sunny," and when he learned that First National would not part with her he consented to sell "Sunny" to Warner Brothers. It was no small sacrifice on his part, either for he had been eager to put it on the screen even before the advent of the talkies.

A LITTLE RUMOR is growing and growing and growing in Hollywood is that Ronald Colman will seek his divorce while in London. Ronald, although married for many years, has not been living with his wife and she has always refused to listen to a divorce, but someone close to Mr. Colman intimated that arrangements will shortly be made whereby he will be given his freedom.

IF HOBART HENLEY doesn't pick a quiet, gentle type for the mother in "Mother's Cry," I'll never speak to him again. I just can't bear to have one of these emotional, plumpish mothers who spill tears by the gallon. That isn't the description given by Helen Carlyle in her book, "Mother's Cry." This mother was not one of the professional type of movie mothers. I'd better cease my ranting and explain that Hobart has been signed on a three years' contract by Warners and as soon as he finishes "Captain Applejack" for Warners he will direct "Mother's Cry."

While in London this summer Mr. Banks will try out a new play by Philip Lonver, called "The Way to the Stars." He returns here in September to begin rehearsals of the new play, which he will also direct. NOVARRO HAS ASPIRATIONS FOR OPERA

That no doubles are needed to sing for Ramon Novarro is amply proved in the current release of the Hearst Metrotone News. The screen star tells of his grand opera aspirations in an interview with Boss Pelswick of the New York Journal. Novarro also sings an old Mexican love

An interesting spectacle of foreign interest shows the Siamese people mourning the death of the king's brother, while in another "shot" the audience is permitted to laugh at the conversation of the men painting the Brooklyn Bridge.

The other items include scenes of Cuba's crack airplane pilots maneuvering over Havana, the champion bike riders of New York in a gruelling race and a fashion revue of summer styles with little children as the models.

SOMERVILLE PAIR ON BILL

Claude and Marion, who are appearing at the Scollay this week in their singing and dancing sketch, "Still Around," are residents of Somerville. They made their stage debut together in a repertoire company that played at the old Academy of Music in Chelsea. They spent the next two years on the legitimate stage, finally drifting into vaudeville in a skit that called for two extras. But their success, even in the minor parts of this piece, was such that they were signed to appear in their own act, written by Claude, and have been together doing a double ever since. In their career in the two-a-day they have traveled from coast to coast, appearing on practically every vaudeville circuit.

Claude

They are real troupers as was brought out during the Chelsea fire of 1908. The fire broke out on a Sunday and Claude and Marion, who were then living in Chelsea, were booked to open on the following day at the old Keith house. Everything that the vaudevillians owned, with the exception of a wardrobe trunk in the theater, was burned. But the act went on.

B. C. STAR ON MET STAGE TONIGHT

Boston College students turn out at the Metropolitan tonight, when Tom Harty will appear on the stage with Horace Heidt and his Californians. Anyone who has attended a Boston College football game within the last few years knows of Tom Harty and his remarkable tap dancing, which he does between the halves of the games. He should be at his best with Heidt and his Californians, who have brought a type of entertainment that is of rare versatility.

Horace Heidt

Every one of the 14 opponents of rhythm is talented; they sing, they dance, they play and for the 35 minutes that they are on the stage they pack in many another form of entertainment in a melange of mirth and music. They have even brought along Lobo, a most intelligent canine, who gives an exhibition of tricks that have seldom been seen on the stage.

Horace Heidt himself, besides leading these snappy Californians, plays the piano, violin, guitar, saxophone and other string instruments. He has a most pleasing singing voice and is a dancer of no mean ability.

Heidt and his band have been the most successful unit to appear at the Met in the last four months, not only from a business standpoint, but from an entertainment angle as well.

"The Spoilers"

Kay Johnson has been assigned a principal role in Rex Beach's "The Spoilers," in which Gary Cooper will be starred by Paramount under Edwin Carewe's direction. Harry Green and Slim Summerville have been chosen for comedy roles.

FLOYD L. BELL JOINS PUBLIX THEATERS

Floyd L. Bell, for the past several years press agent and "story man" with Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus, has joined the publicity department of Publix Theaters and will be located in the Boston district. Prior to being with the Ringling-Barnum circus, Mr. Bell was director of public relations for the Frisco Lines Railway and previous to that was engaged in newspaper work in various cities, having been feature editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch at the time of joining the railway publicity forces. He is a University of Minnesota man and was born in Minneapolis.

Floyd L. Bell

With the Ringling shows he developed an acquaintance which embraces practically every newspaper executive and editor in the United States and Canada. When not traveling with the circus for the past five winters, his home has been at the winter quarters of the big circus in Sarasota, Florida. He is married and has two daughters.

Miss Bennett Assigned

Gertrude Bennett and Robert T. Haines have been assigned roles in Columbia's "Temptation."

ARMLESS, BUT HE'S SOME GOLFER

Tommy McAuliffe, world's champion armless golfer and writer of sporting stories, one of the important attractions this week at the Keith-Albee, is an authority on sports and is the most unusual character in the golf world. Twenty-five years ago, then a boy of nine years, McAuliffe was in a railroad accident and when the doctors finally decided that he could live, both arms had necessitated amputation. From the day that he left the hospital, armless, he has never looked upon his plight as other than a handicap which had to be overcome and which he continually does overcome.

Tommy McAuliffe

Despite his handicap he attended school, sold newspapers, and after school hours became a caddy at the Country Club links, now Grover Cleveland Park, Buffalo.

Placing the club between his shoulders and his cheek Tommy discovered that he could swing it with sufficient force to hit the ball. Day by day he practiced and finally came to the point where he mastered the art and decided to play the course. In the meantime he had picked up enough clubs to play the various

Wrestling Drawing Huge Crowds in Boston

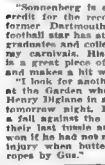
"Lewis and Sonnenberg drew 20,000 persons to the Garden and the receipts hit $78,000," said Paul. "Sonny and Malcewicz battled before 18,000 persons who paid $54,000 into the box office.



Jack Conway

"Sonny and Count Zaroff recently clashed before a crowd of 16,000 which paid in $41,000 for tickets.

"The Sonny-Lewis show at Fenway Park last June hit $40,000 with a crowd of 17,000 on hand, while the Arena has frequently seen 10,000 and 12,000 crowds.

"All this indicates to me the greater popularity wrestling is enjoying in New England. I can remember when they would give three cheers if a show drew $8000.

"Sonnenberg is entitled to the credit for the record gates. The former Dartmouth all-American football star has attracted college graduates and college students to my carnivals. His flying tackle is a great piece of showmanship and makes a hit with the fans.

"I look for another record gate at the Garden when Gus battles Henry Digiance in a return match tomorrow night. Digiance scored a fall against the champion in their last tussle and might have won if he had not received a head injury when butted through the ropes by Gus."

Sharkey Has Plenty of Good Sparring Partners

"How's everything in camp?" queried Mr. Boston.

"Okay," declared Buckley. "I have Johnny Crosso, King Solomon and Paul Cavelier as sparring partners for Sharkey. I also may be able to get the services of James J. Braddock who is here getting ready for a tussle with Berlanger in Canada.

"Sharkey has been looking well in training and is confident he will win.

"Billy Henderson just telephoned to me that Andy Callahan has been displaying good form in his workouts for his bout with Sammy Fuller at the Argonne A. A. on next Monday night. I look for Callahan to win by a knockout and clinch his claim to the New England lightweight title."

Alex MacLean Talks About Jimmy Slattery

ALEX MacLean, matchmaker for the Garden, dropped in to hello Mr. Boston.

"I just came from the Pine Grove Inn at Marlboro where Jimmy Slattery is training for his ten-round tussle with Pete Latzo at the Garden on next Tuesday night," said Alex. "The world's light heavyweight champion boxed at a terrific pace while he also punched hard. Jimmy is a much better battler than he was the night he knocked Augie Ratner cold in Mechanics Building.

"The Crosscup-Pinhon Post, which is staging the show, has billed Leo Pantaleo and Chuck Burns for the semifinal of ten rounds. It's a great show and will draw a big gate. The Legion boys tell me their bond sale has set a new record."

Bob McKirdy Trying to Bring Out New Boxers

MR. BOSTON noticed that Col. Bob McKirdy has a flock of promising local boxers billed to perform in his preliminary bouts at his Arena Club show on Friday night.

McKirdy developed many boxers when operating under the Commercial A. C. charter in Commercial Hall" chirped Mr. Boston. "He should also bring out some good talent at the Arena. Bob has a swell action card topping his card with Harry Allen battling Willie Oster and Bob Jasso swapping blows with Tony Shucco.

MRS. BAKER IS WINNER IN W.G.A. PLAY

By BILL GRIMES.

In the second round of the Women's Golf Association of Boston championship, played today at the Salem Country Club, the only upsets were the defeats of Miss Grace English of Colonial and of Miss Margret Curtis.

Miss English, medalist of the qualifying round, was beaten by Mrs. Donald M. Belcher of Winchester, a former champion, while Miss Curtis, who formerly hied the national as well as the state title, was unable to hold the pace set by Mrs. Harry Peterson of Winchester, a comparatively newcomer to championship tournaments.

Mrs. E. H. Baker, Jr., defending champion, had little trouble disposing of Mrs. P. A. Stanwood of Wellesley. Mrs. Baker was 41 to the turn to be 3 up. The defending champion turned in the best outward round she has played at Salem in the championship so far.

Mrs. Stone Plays Very Steady Golf

Mrs. E. C. Stone, another former champion reached the third round by defeating Mrs. E. S. Kelley, Oakley, by a 5 and 4 margin. Mrs. Stone was very steady with the exception of two holes going out and had a two-hole advantage starting the inward round.

Wins at the 11th, 13th and 14th were sufficient to end the match and send Mrs. Stone into the third round in which she will play Mrs. E. H. Baker, Jr., the defending champion.

Mrs. Stone's card:
Out—5 5 4 6 3 4 7 5—44.
In—5 6 5 5 3
Mrs. Kelley's card:

Mrs. D. M. Belcher caught Miss Grace English off stride and piled up a four-hole lead during the outward round, in which her medal score was 43, against Miss English's 48.

A stymie cost Miss English the third hole and to some extent was the turning point of the match, for after they had halved the fourth hole by virtue of a long putt by Mrs. Belcher, the Winchester player won three and halved two of the remaining holes to the turn. Miss English got back a hole at the 10th, but dropped back to 4 down at the 11th, where she visited two traps. Miss English reduced her deficit by winning the 13th and 14th, but was unable to get better than halves on the next three holes and lost a 2 and 1 decision to Mrs. Belcher.

Miss Curtis Loses Match on Stymies

Two dead stymies cost Miss Margaret Curtis her match with Mrs. Harry Peterson. At the sixth hole Mrs. Curtis was shut off from a sure win by Mrs. Peterson's approach putt. On the 17th where the Essex veteran had a fine opportunity to carry the match to the home green, Mrs. Peterson's approach putt again stopped in the line of Miss Curtis' ball, ending the match.

Mrs. Dorothy Richards of Weston and Miss Rosamond Vahey of Belmont Spring engaged in a real battle for 20 holes. They were both out in 43 and were all even, and they were still even going to the 19th, where Miss Richards ran down a 25 foot putt for a deuce and followed this with a win at the 413th hole. Miss Vahey put her tee shot out of bounds.

After they had halved the 14th and 15th, Miss Richards won the long 16th and the match, 3 and 2.

Although Mrs. H. F. Prunaret, Jr., of Charles River, and Miss Silvia P. Peterson of Salem played 17 holes, they did not halve a hole. Mrs. Prunaret started off by winning the first four holes, but she lost the next three and then came back with two winning holes to be three up at the turn.

Miss Benson took the 10th and 11th to be only one down and after losing the 12th, brought her opponent to within one hole of her again at the 13th. Then Mrs. Prunaret started her drive to victory by winning the 14th and 15th, only to lose the 16th. She wound up with a nice

Berlin, May 21 (AP)—Strong pressure in favor of the continuance of women's Olympic track and field events in the 1932 games at Los Angeles was brought to bear today by the International Amateur Athletic Federation in session here.

Unless the women are allowed to compete, the world's male athletes as represented in the I. A. A. F. will adopt a policy of non-cooperation in regard to the Olympics, it was indicated.

A resolution proposed by Gustavus T. Kirby of New York was adopted by the federation at its closing session today which provides that the I. A. A. F. shall remain in Berlin recess, to be called together about the Olympic congress, convening next week, decide to eliminate the women's race and field events that recalling the I. A. A. F into

College Head Praises Hearst Rifle Shoot

Fargo, N. D., May 21 Five North Dakota farm boys, none of whom has ever been farther away from home than Minneapolis, yesterday received the first of the awards to come to them because their sharp eyes and steady arms won the senior division of the Hearst intercollegiate rifle matches.

Featuring the annual inspection of the North Dakota Agricultural College cadet corps was the presentation of the mammoth trophy given by William Randolph Hearst to the rifle champions.

It is the first time it has been won here. Lt. Col. Bernard Lents, U. S. A., Fort Snelling, Minnesota, who inspected the cadet unit, presented the trophy on behalf of Mr. Hearst.

Receiving the fifty pound plaque, President J. H. Shepperd of the college paid tribute to Mr. Hearst and the interest his awards have brought in the field of marksmanship. He said:

"Mr. Hearst every year is getting thousands of young men to live right because they wish to win his honors. I know, and everyone knows, that rifle marksmanship makes the maximum demands on the nerves and condition of the competitors.

"I am proud that five students of our college lived right and won. I join with the state of North Dakota in thanking Mr. Hearst, not only for his trophy, but for the good he is doing all over the land."

Members of the rifle team were guests of honor on the reviewing stand as the college cadet corps passed in parade to salute them.

Members of the team, who will leave soon for a trip to Washington, D. C., as Publisher Hearst's guests, are, Morris Barka, Ekeland, N. D., Edward Comm, Fargo, Kenneth Piper, Ashley, N. D.; Arthur Johnson, Turdsfield, N. D., and Alvin H. Lee, Valley City, N. D.

Any time Schaaf is ready to sign to meet him in a return bout he'll be there and he won't do any kicking about the purse he will receive.

BRAVES BEAT GIANTS, 4-3

New York, May 21 (UP) The lack of a good second baseman defeated the Giants in a 10-inning struggle against the Braves, 4 to 3.

It was Pat Crawford's error in the tenth that led to the winning two runs scored by the Tribe.

A walk followed the error and a single scored two. It was the Braves fourth victory out of five over the McGrawmen.

session would mean voting to withdraw from the Olympics.

There is only one possibility of the I. A. A. F.'s accepting elimination of feminine track and field competition, namely, if the Olympic congress should decide also to cut out all other women's events, such as fencing and swimming.

In that case the I. A. A. F. was ready to abide by the decision of the congress, although with regret.

Mr. Kirby and Murray Hulbert, former president of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, led the fight to continue women's events in the Olympic track and field program.

Mr. Hulbert afterward told the Associated Press he felt confident that the International Olympic Congress will vote to retain the women's events.

ENGLISH KEEN TO SEE SARAH PALFREY

Wimbledon, Eng., May 21—Prospects of the Wightman cup matches, to be played here on June 13 and 14, are already exciting lawn tennis fans.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Helen Jacobs will be as big attractions as ever, and there will also be great curiosity to see Miss Sarah Palfrey and Miss Mary Greef, the promising American stars, daily crowds of 10,000 are expected.

British opinion regards it as certain that Mrs. Moody will win her two singles; it is thought that there is an even chance at least, that Britain will win the other two singles. And the general view is that the ultimate result will turn on the result of the doubles match.

Makeup of British Team Is Still in Doubt

The British team is absolutely uncertain in regard to composition at the moment—so uncertain that the selection committee, disregarding the previous rules, have ordered another set of tests on grass in the first week in June.

All that can be said at present is that Mrs. Holcroft Watson, who played so well in the United States last fall, is almost certain to be one of the first singles players. Mrs. Kitty McKaine Godfree has no wish, at present, to be a candidate for the singles.

Derby Winner Won't Run at Fairmont

Collinsville, Ill., May 21—Gallant Fox, winner of the Kentucky Derby, will not enter the Fairmont Derby here Saturday, it was officially announced today.

Women's Group Strongly in Favor of Women Athletes

"For one thing," he said, "the I. O. C. is largely influenced by the wishes of the country where the Olympics are to be held—and America strongly favors continuing the women on the program.

"Also, the likely lineup in nations is such as to make a victory on this point pretty certain so far as I know, only France, England, Italy and Hungary oppose women's participation."

Women's Olympic track and field competition was first held at the Amsterdam games of 1928 with the Canadian entries carrying off most of the honors.

Members of the American delegation received posts of honor and responsibility. Joseph MacCabe of Boston was re-elected chairman of the rules and records committee; Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the A. A. U., was placed on the women's athletic committee, and Mr. Kirby was re-elected to membership in the Pentathlon committee.

Delegates re-elected to the executive committee were Mr. Hulbert; J. S. Edstrom, Sweden; Harry J. Barclay, Great Britain; J. Genet, France; P. Lang, Germany, and S. Stankovits, Hungary.

Diglane Ends Training for Title Mat Battle

SONNY HERE FOR GO AT GARDEN

Henri Diglane, French flash, will wind up his training today at Toland's gymnasium, and tomorrow night he will battle Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg for the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world at the Garden.

They will meet in a two-falls out of three finish match, before one of the largest crowds that has ever attended a grappling match in New England. The Franco-Americans of New England are behind Henri of France to the last man, and his legion of supporters will be joined by the thousands of admirers who follow the fortunes of Sonnenberg.

Diglane was given a testimonial reception by the Franco-Americans and wrestling fans of Leominster, and the modest French star will receive a tumultuous greeting when he steps into the ring tomorrow night for the greatest moment of his career.

Diglane, the finest wrestler ever produced in France, is confident on the eve of the battle that his speed and skill will carry him past the flying tackle of Gus the Goat.

Sonnenberg Returns After Long Tour

Sonnenberg arrived this morning, and it is expected that he will do some loosening-up exercises to remove the kinks from his muscle. He is on the tail-end of another whirlwind tour that carried him through Canada to Los Angeles and back across the continent.

Count George Zarynoff, sensational Russian star, will battle Ed "Strangler" Lewis in the semifinal bout. The bout is the strongest semifinal match ever arranged for a local ring.

In the preliminary bouts, Bob "Bibber" McCoy of Cambridge will be paired with Jack Rustell of Montreal. Jack Wagner of Providence with Frank Yusko of Arlington, Joe Makewicz of Utica with Jack Sherry, champion of Canada, and Wladek Zbyszko, former world's champion, with Renato Gardini, Italian idol.

SHARKEY TELLS HOW HE LOST TUNNEY SHOT

By JACK SHARKEY
American Heavyweight Champion

Following my defeat in the Dempsey bout, I took a vacation. I had been in continuous training for almost 11 months and was entitled to a rest.

During this time I had battled Riverberri, Godfrey, Wills, Smith, McTigue, Maloney and Dempsey.

In September I made a trip to Chicago to see Gene Tunney defend his championship against Dempsey. That was the celebrated "Battle of the Long Count."

After the bout, Tex Rickard told me he was confident I would be the next heavyweight champion of the world.

He declared I had the style necessary to defeat Tunney. He pointed out that Gene held his right hand low and would be an easy mark for my left.

He also believed my bobbing, weaving style of boxing would trouble the champion.

With the thought in mind of matching me with Tunney for a bout in the summer of 1928, Rickard signed me to meet Tom Heeney in the New York Garden. After a postponement, the match took place on January 12, 1928.

It was pleasing to find the Garden a complete sellout. The "Fact or Foul?" controversy over my bout with Dempsey helped to make me a great drawing card.

I had injured my right hand in training for the Heeney bout. Several small bones were shattered, which was the cause of the postponement.

SHARKEY'S HAND BAD

The hand was in poor shape on the night of the contest. I only did a little boxing in preparation for the bout on account of my injured duke. As a result my judgment of distance was poor.

I was a top-heavy favorite and when I failed to win in decisive style the crowd swung to Heeney.

The official decision was a draw at the end of 12 rounds. The sport writers treated me more favorably, 23 out of 23 New York experts declaring I had won.

But it was a poor bout, and even if I had got the decision, it would not have increased my standing a great deal.

Rickard, still anxious to match me with Tunney, signed me to battle Johnny Risko at the New York Garden on March 11, 1928.

I had previously beaten Risko in Boston and I did not expect to experience much trouble with him in our New York engagement.

It was a stunning blow to me when Risko was awarded the decision at the end of 15 rounds of battling. I always felt I won that bout, and my opinion was shared by many persons at the ringside.

My next start was against Jack Delaney, former world's light heavyweight champion, at the New York Garden, on April 30, 1928.

K. O. IN FIRST ROUND

I had considerable weight on Delaney, and made a rushing battle of it. I came out of my corner fighting and won by a knockout in the first round.

I came near getting tipped over myself when Delaney scored with a terrific blow to the side of my head.

I was dazed after the punch landed, but managed to keep on shooting punches until I landed with the knockout.

I was at the ringside the night Tunney stopped Heeney and I certainly kicked myself for having lost the opportunity to battle Gene. I know I could have beaten him.

This injury kept me out of the ring until December 10, 1928, when I outscored Arthur DeKuh in a 10-round bout at Boston.

I coasted along in the DeKuh bout as I was not sure how my injured leg would stand up under the strain of action. I was elated when my legs felt strong after going the full 10 rounds.

I was once more down to the serious business of boxing. When Kayo Christner knocked out Knute Hansen, I readily consented to meet the king of the Akron fire pits at the New York Garden on Jan. 25, 1929.

CHRISTNER TOUGH

In the fourth session, Kayo almost ruined me with a right to the chin. But I came back fighting and beat Christner down under the power of a mighty attack to the body.

Christner later told me I almost knocked him out with a right to the jaw late in the tenth round. The decision of the judges and the referee was unanimous.

RED SOX LOSE TO YANKEES, 7 TO 4

By JOE CASHMAN

Ed "Bull" Durham, rookie Sox right-hander, gave the finest exhibition of pitching seen at Fenway Park this year in the fourth and final game of the series with the Yanks.

But his mates couldn't make a run for him and Umpire Bill Dineen made it as tough as possible for him with the result that the visitors walked off with the verdict, 7 to 4, after 10 innings of battling.

Entering the pastime in the third to relieve Horace Lisenbee, who started and allowed six hits and four runs, he found runners on first and third and, nobody out.

He pulled the natives out of that hole without allowing a run and from then until the fatal 10th, he gave but one single and one base on balls and fanned four of the enemy.

But the Sox, after driving Waite Hoyt, starting New York hurler, out and tying the count in the third, could only make three hits off Herb Pennock. And "Bull," instead of hanging up a victory in regulation distance, had to go on and let Dineen beat him.

From the time he entered the box, Dineen absolutely refused to call perfect corner strikes anything but balls and the youngster was forced to groove the pill continually. Then, in the tenth, the "ump" started to call in-the-slot deliveries balls and licked the kid.

Harvard Freshmen Play Andover Nine

With a record of six defeats and only two victories, the Harvard freshman baseball team will meet the strong Andover Academy nine at Soldiers Field at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

HARVARD PLAYS BROWN TODAY

Harvard meets Brown at Soldiers Field today, with Red MacHale on the mound for the Crimson and Art Sondheim pitching for Brown.

MacHale and Sondheim stage their third mound duel as the Cantabs and Brunonians clash. Twice, a year ago, Mitchell called upon MacHale to do the honors against the Brown flash and both times MacHale was in the win column.

He will have a hard time getting a third decision today, as Sondheim is going stronger than ever, while MacHale has not worked a full game for many weeks.

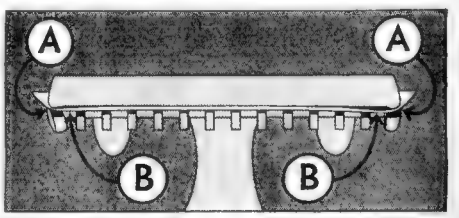
The New Gillette Blade
makes your damaged old type Gillette Razor a serviceable shaving instrument



A. Damaged Corners. B. Blade out of alignment. Old type Gillette Razor with damaged teeth and corners. Note how the old type Gillette Blade is out of alignment. Result—a poor shave.

THE NEW Gillette Blade has restored thousands of damaged, old type Gillette Razors to active shaving service.

These veteran razors had become damaged through years of daily use. They were dropped on the floor. The corners of the razor caps and the guard teeth were bent. Poor shaves resulted, for the bent corners forced the blade out of alignment.

The New Gillette Blade remedies this defect

Daily Health Hint for Readers

Using slightly acid fruits as the last course of a meal has the advantage of removing food particles from the teeth and promoting the flow of saliva which is good for digestion. In the morning before breakfast the juices serve to clean the throat and passages after night's rest.

HINTS ON MAKING CANDY SUITABLE FOR SALE

Martha Lee Broadcasts Home-Made Sweets

(From Martha Lee's Wednesday morning broadcast over WHDH from the Boston Evening American studio.)

Many requests have come to me recently for instructions on home candy making, especially candies suitable for selling.

So today I think we'll talk about the simplest form of home candy making, uncooked fondant, and the many delicious bonbons that can be made from it.

Martha Lee

UNCOOKED CREAM FONDANT

2 tbsps. heavy cream
1 tsp. corn syrup
1 cup confectioners' sugar
Flavors
Colors

Put cream and light-colored corn syrup in a bowl, and sifted sugar gradually, stirring until smooth, and add as much sugar as is necessary to make a stiff paste. Add flavoring or coloring as desired and use as a filling for dates, fruits, nuts, or as centers for bon bons or chocolates.

It may be warmed (but not made hot) over hot water, and nuts, cherries, grapes, sections of orange, and fondant centers be dipped in it. It will have to be kept over the hot water, stirred constantly, and frequently put for a few moments over the fire

When filled they can be dipped in dipping chocolate, or left to crystallize. The fondant can be easily colored with a few drops of table coloring paste. Be sure not to get the tints too bright.

To make delicious almond creams, make small balls of fondant and place almonds on each side of the balls or cover entirely with fondant, shape like a very small egg, and roll in granulated sugar.

For cherry creams, take fondant of any color or flavor, roll out one-eighth inch thick, shape with round cutter 1¼ inches in diameter, and roll around cherry, leaving a small portion exposed. Place in paper cases. Vanilla, coffee and pistachio fondant look particularly well with the cherries.

And do try these delicious uncooked coconaut creams

2 tbsps. heavy cream
Lavender color paste
1 cup confectioners' sugar
¼ tsp. extract, essence or vanilla
1 cup shredded cocoanut

Color the heavy cream a deep shade of lavender, add flavoring and cocoanut, and let stand 10 minutes. Then add sifted sugar, beat over hot water until softened, and drop from the tip of a fork on wax paper, in rough balls the size of a chocolate cream. Leave until firm. Color paste may be omitted, or other colors may be used instead of lavender.

MAPLE NUT CREAMS

1 cup confectioners' sugar.
6 tbsps. chopped nuts.

Put maple syrup in a small bowl, and sifted confectioners' sugar, a tbsp. at a time, stirring until smooth, and adding sufficient sugar to make candy stiff. Knead until smooth. Shape in small balls and roll in nut meats.

UNCOOKED STRAWBERRY

Sifted confectioners' sugar.
Wash and hull strawberries sprinkle with half a cup of confectioners' sugar, and let stand half an hour. Wash, rub through a fine sieve, add lemon juice, and stir in a tbsp. at a time, enough more confectioners' sugar to make mixture stiff enough to shape. Make into small balls, and roll in granulated sugar, or roll out in a sheet ¼-inch thick, cut with small round cutter, and roll in sugar, or d p in melted coating chocolate.

Other fruit, or syrup from a well flavored jar of fruit, may be used instead of strawberries.

WALNUT CREAMS

Fondant
English walnut meats

Use any of the recipes for uncooked or cooked fondant, color and flavor as desired, shape in small balls, using 1 tbsp. of fondant for each ball. Press half a walnut meat firmly on each side and roll edges in granulated sugar, either plain or colored.

Maple, vanilla, or coffee flavor are good, or raspberry flavor and pink color paste may be used.

If there are any special candy recipes you'd like to have, don't hesitate to write to me for them, whether it's Turkish paste or molasses kisses. It's a real pleasure to help you.

The Garden Girl

"On account of moving, I won't be able to plant my flower garden until the last of this month," writes Mrs. P. D. O., of Beverly. "Do you think I will have any luck with them?

The garden girl and I held a consultation over the hedge this morning and agreed that even though hardy annuals are sown late, many of them grow with astonishing activity and before late summer catch up with those that were sown earlier. Petunias are a particularly happy choice and will make a showing that few other annuals can equal. Petunia rose of heaven, pink, is one of the showiest, while for a deep color, balcony rose is very good, balcony blue and balcony white also. We wish that those of you were familiar with this balcony type of petunia for beds and borders. It's unusually good, too, grown in porch and window boxes where the hanging flower laden branches will make a showing that few other annuals can equal. The Beauty Box

—By HELEN FOLLETT—

In middle age freckles have a mean, sneaking way of developing into moth patches. Exposure to wind and strong sunlight encourages the discolorations to form. A lotion that will remove them, if they are not old timers is made by combining four ounces of rubbing alcohol, two ounces of rosewater and 15 drops of simple tincture of benzoin. The benzoin is the thickening agent. It fluffs away to epidermis in flour-like particles.

Eyes don't change much. Worry, illness or age may rob them of spirit and luster, but shape and color remain the same. Mouths are of our own making. They reaveal character and disposition. The pouty girl has drooping corners lifted the sour-dough femme carries hers drooping or clenched toward the chin at times. The mouth expresses petulance, selfishness, weakness of character, cruelty or kindness. Just so are unsightly lines laid upon the countenance by the powers of emotion

Owing to the peculiar honey structure of some faces, cheeks are gaunt and hollow. More often the cause is found in a diet that does not contain fat-producing elements Proper local treatment consists of nightly massage with a heavy cream. Fingers and thumbs are outspread over the cheeks and come together with a clawing movement which stimulates circulation in the trumpeters muscles.

Fashion Trophy Goes to Sports

—By ANN ARDEN—

(Ann Arden broadcasts latest style news over WHDH every Tuesday and Thursday at 11 a. m.)

IT IS interesting to observe that even though active sports clothes maintain a casual simplicity, in little details they more than admit the feminine trend of the hour. Golf clothes are decidedly workshop from a sports standpoint. They are designed with freedom of movement in mind, but if the skirt is very trim, the blouse favors a frivolous ouch here and there.

• • •

CONVENIENCE HAS kept the golfing hemline much shorter than that for spectator use. It neatly covers the knee but is sufficiently brief to be unhampering Though several types of one piece frocks are seen, the tuck-in and skirt are far in the ascendency

• • •

THE GOLF costume pictured is absolutely correct, as well as trim, smart and youthful. Of cotton mesh in powder blue, the skirt is sufficiently circular to allow needed freedom, yet has no fool ish pleats or inserts to blow about one's qubs at a crucial moment. The blouse top is worn tuck-in with the turn-over collar may be fastened high or left open to a deeper V, and it boasts the perfect sleeve-set-in, a comfortable length, that will not pull or twist out of place. The "sunshine Blazer" vest is of blue felt, with bands of ribbon, horizontally striped in vivid colors. Pastel felts are destined or a return appearance as high fashion.

• • •

THE LINEN handkerchief, tucked in the patch pocket, is striped in blue, the oxfords are the smart brown and white combination, and the chamois golf gloves helpful to achieve a low score.

• • •

IT IS not always the most spectacular play that marks up a triumph on the final scores; more than occasionally it is some adroit little maneuver that wins the game. So it is with sports costumes; when their score of chic is totaled, it is the little things that count tremendously.

• • •

THERE IS one thing to bear in mind when selecting either sports clothes or their accessories. That is this: sports togs must be fashionable but primarily practical. You will never find a true sportswoman arrayed in musical comedy fancies She is far more likely to wear a good jacket or hat for years because they have proved good sports themselves:

The Office Wife -:- By Faith Baldwin

CHAPTER 34

But Anne's first response to Ted's love-making had vanished. It had produced in her a genuine if ephemeral emotion, born of her loneliness and her tired heart and her grief; born, too, of the natural demands of her unhabituted senses.

His kisses, his arms about her, had brought her a certain comfort. And she had thought, her lips warm under O'Hara's and her heart longing for Lawrence Eaton, that that forbidden dreaming, that perilous making-believe, would lessen, would vanish and leave her wholly Ted's. But it had not.

This she had faced as the weeks went by. And she faced also this dishonest shift, this evasion of Eaton's name, his person, in part, with no mention of Eaton

Mrs. Murdock was unsatisfied, but delighted, "I knew it," she said, "and you knew it all along. It's not been like you, Anne, to keep the boy dangling like this"

She was ashamed of her daughter and said so, and Anne answered humbly

"I don't blame you. I've been dishonest with Ted and with myself. It was a way out, an escape I truly thought, when I said I'd marry him, that I could make him care the way I should—the way he wanted me to."

"You must tell him at once," said her mother.

Ted was taking his vacation. He had not left the city, but was staying with three other young men in a bungalow at Manhattan Beach. Every day, then, he came to hear Anne and to get the exercise he loved tennis, handball, swimming.

Mary—"Oh; Mother, look at that child in the street

Mary—"Mother how did you know her name?"

JOAN AIKEN,
60 Tribou st., Brockton, Mass.

The evening of her talk with her mother, Anne was terribly restless Having made up her mind she was impatient to have the whole thing settled. Ted had said nothing about a party—mon'st swam mining—that night and it offered to drive in and take her to the she had refused, and had been hurt and disappointed

Sometime after dinner, she put on her hat, slipped a white flannel coat over her sheer dress and went and spoke to her mother.

"I'm going to drive down to the beach and talk to Ted" she said. "I must. I can't go on a minute longer."

"You've gone on the better part of a year," her mother informed her. "Can't you wait until tomorrow?"

"No. Please, please understand," Anne begged. "I've been such a fool, and so unfair. I can't go through another night, thinking, thinking "

"You can't go down there alone with a party going on."

Anne argued that she knew Ted's friends. They wouldn't think it strange. The party didn't amount to anything, just a few young people going for a swim and building a beach fire

"I'll be going with you," said her mother. And that was that. They drove in absolute silence through the stupendous massed traffic of a hot summer night When they reached Manhattan Beach the wind was cool and still and the rows of bungalows blazed with light, resounded to the voices and laughter, the music of phonographs and radios At the end of each side street the ocean glowed, calm, dark, mysterious, with the promise of light from the rising moon in its breast.

The bungalow Ted shared with his friends was built on a platform, and a phonograph was playing on the porch

Anne parked the car, and her mother, sneakin for the house, said, "I'll wait here. I shall go back to watch the ocean at the rising moon

Anne went in Half a dozen young men and women, all of whom she knew, I ked us at her entrance They were bathing suits and had been dancing

Harry Peters, Ted's closest friend, came forward "Anne! What a piece of luck! Did you bring your suit?"

"No; I'm not going to stay." She greeted the other, smiling "Mother's out in the car. We went for a ride," she improvised, "and I want to speak to Ted."

"He's down on the beach," Peters told her hastily. "I'll go get him."

"No, I'll go."

But she had run out, saying over her shoulder, "Thanks, Harry; don't bother."

There was a silence after she had gone, then one of the girls remarked resp ndly. Well, that leaves it probable.

Peters said, "Oh, I don't know. Anne's sensible. Still, Jane, you shouldn't have brought her down."

"Why not? She begged to come. It isn't my fault that Ted gave her one sort of rush last year and the bum's rush this," answered Jane coolly. "I should worry!"

Anne went down to the private beach adjoining the bungalow. She called Ted once, and as she called she saw a dark blur near a pile of driftwood

She walked over, thinking he had not heard her. The wind was blowing hard and in the wrong direction

She stumbled upon them—Ted with a girl in his arms; Ted saying over and over: "I'm sorry. I'm sorry. I didn't know."

Anne stopped stock-still. She wanted to die of shame at her childish, groundless jealousy. But she couldn't move.

She heard the girl's voice answering a voice familiar to her: "You did know. I've loved you all along. You cared once, a little—and you did. I can't give you up, Teddy. I won't."

Anne said quietly, walking nearer

"You won't have to, Polly."

Ted Ames pulled himself out of Tess arms with a little shriek

"Anne!" Ted exclaimed,

Ted moved forward very hurriedly and at the same time subject. The moon, sailing out from under a cloud, flung a sudden arrow on the scene, the driftwood pile, the two girls and the man, the white, shifting sand

"It doesn't matter. I came here to see you," Anne began.

"I can explain," Ted said unhappily.

"You don't have to. I came down to apologize for something I hadn't intended to do it before an audience," Anne went on, "but that doesn't matter either. I don't love you. I've told you so. I told you I thought I'd care—one day. I was wrong."

Mrs. Beeckman Advises

By MRS. BEECKMAN

A Plan in Poor Taste

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN

Will you please advise me in regard to the proper form of wedding invitations for the following? Our son is going to marry a girl whose father and mother are dead So we are giving a wedding reception and also sending the invitations. The question is—how should the invitations read? Would it be proper to word them as follows

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. request the honor of your presence at the marriage of (girl's name), daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs.

So and So, to their son

If this form is not proper, will you please give us a form, mentioning the father and mother of the girl, if possible, as we would like to do that. H. B.

The form that you mention is not correct, and should not in any case, be sent. It is not correct for the mother and the father of the groom-to-be to send the invitations or announcements in their names

Has the girl no relatives? It would be excellent form for the invitations to be sent by a married sister and her husband or a married brother and his wife, or an uncle or aunt, or cousin

It is not good form except for the mother and father of the groom to give the wedding reception. If the girl has no relatives that will take this responsibility, she will do, she is wise, have the smallest kind of wedding informal but in excellent taste, and no reception, unless she herself can plan to have

One Note Enough

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN

I am going to give books as a birthday gift to a young man friend We are not engaged as yet, and I'd like to write something on the front of each book instead of the proper thing to do. Can you please give me an idea as to what I should write in them? Should I write in every one or just in one?

Instead of writing your messages in the books, I advise you to write a note, a charming little letter now with all of your friendly birthday wishes in it, and not take for granted that your friend would like to have the messages written in the books. It would be better taste to wait for him to ask you to write in the books, if he wishes to have this done. Otherwise as in auto graphing books, it often seems a bit "previous" or taste-fo-granted if we do this before we are especially invited to do it. Personal gestures of this kind should be carefully considered so that we will be sure of the taste involved

If you still wish to write a message, write it on one one of the books. Four such messages would be a bit overdoing it I am

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Correct Eating and Longevity

Nutritional failure and how to avoid it is a subject to which more thought should be given.

The fad of "stay thin" is still with us, but that there is danger in it cannot be denied. The desire to these over zealous ma lies in the fact that many of those headed for a short life in stead of a long one. Staying thin means a undernourished body.

Dr. Copeland

I know many a man who is now busy making money that he has no time for deliberate eating. People who rush through the days work, those who snatch a hasty meal and coffee for lunch time, not stopping for rest and real food, are not fooling the undertaker a particle.

Since the delicatessen diet has become so popular many persons are beginning to wonder just how far we can go in being fed from brown paper bags. Let us be sensible about our eating.

It is a long road back to the home-cooked food of our mothers and grandmothers' days. Those were the days when the house was filled with the appealing odors of long rows of newly baked bread, pies and cakes, twice a week. Home was a real place in those days!

Our forefathers were a sturdy race. They ate more of the homely but nourishing food than we do today. They lived a more leisurely life, and life was not the strenuous pace that it is now. We should take more care of our diet and of living rightly.

There will never be a time when unsatisfactory substitutes can replace the natural foods for the average family. Good health and strength depend upon meat and potatoes, good bread and butter, fresh and wholesome cooked vegetables and fruits, and the milk products. You just cannot get along without these foods if you want to be well.

The average American diet often lacks in the necessary vitamins. It is a simple matter to secure an abundance of vitamins if milk or the milk products, such as cheese, fruits and tomatoes, as well as the leafy green vegetables are taken in large enough amounts. When we speak of the leafy vegetables we mean such vegetables as spinach lettuce, cauliflower and cabbage

One of our eminent nutritionists, Dr. H C. Sharman, has offered the following family budget plan for securing the necessary vitamins: "To spend at least as much for fruit and vegetables as for meat and fish; also to spend at least as much for milk as for meat (or for milk and cheese as for meat and fish)." This is a very good rule to follow.

You cannot enjoy robust health if there is a nutritional lack. Each day the diet should contain at least a pint of milk for adults and a quart for the growing child, two salads and two liberal helpings of the leafy portions of green vegetables, one small helping of meat, and one or two eggs, besides bread and butter, fruit and other vegetables

From infancy to old age, diet is the chief source of energy and growth On the whole, people are becoming enlightened to the great dangers of nutritional failure. Our girls are being trained in both public and private schools more and more in the art of home-making and cooking. The public has free dietitians, the radio, the public press and all manner of periodicals setting forth the value of proper diet and how to secure it.

There is another thing to think of and that is the importance of regularity in the meals. Have a set time for your meals. Have your menus regularly and systematically good. Take enough time so that you can eat leisurely. Make a pleasant ceremony of the meal. Thus you may live long and happily

Heart and Home

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He Looks and Smiles

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

You have answered many questions, so I wish you would answer this There is a fellow who would like to speak to me but doesn't know how to start. He has told other fellows so, that is how I know When I see him at school he looks at me and smiles.

Thanking you for your answer, "BLONDIE."

Dear "Blondie":

It would seem that school life would present many opportunities for the young man to get acquainted. If the code of conduct is too rigid to permit of his speaking without an introduction, why can't some of your mutual friends be pressed into service? A smile of encouragement from you might help matters along. You wouldn't appear to be seeking his acquaintance if I were you

He Doesn't Dance

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am a girl of 18 and I have a boy friend whom I like very dearly. He is nice to me in every way but he forbids me going to dances. I do not mean any harm I just like to go once a week with my girl chum, but he won't let me I'm willing for him to come, but he finds excuse that he cannot dance

I would like very much to have your advice on this matter Thanking you, APELINE

Dear "Adeline"

Do your dances mean more to you than your friendship? Would you be happy with him even if he doesn't enjoy the same form of pleasure that you do? If you can answer these questions honestly you have solved your own problem But very often a girl wouldn't appear to be seeking his acquaintance if he would give up her form of dancing for the pleasure of being with you. Anne Shall She Show She Cares?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am very much dearly and know he felt the same toward me. Lately, he does not come to see me as often as he used to and does not show as much affection. He doesn't go out with any other girls, so his heart must be falling in love with some one else His closest friends have told me the reason for his acting so is because I don't show enough that I care for him. It seems perfectly foolish for a girl to do this I am wrong? I have tried to be very patient and have been waiting for him to come, but no advance has come, so I am no longer patient. What shall I do?

"BLONDIE."

It hasn't been my experience that young men stop paying attention to girls because they do not show plainly how much they care. In fact the reverse has often been found to work very well. As one of my young men correspondents wrote me, when he recognized his sweetheart's letter in my column: "Why chase the girl who can't get you've caught it?" And please do not understand this as meaning that I recommend pretended indifference, unreasonable changes of mood, or "tantrums," as attractive —far from it. But there are a good delicate ways a girl can let a man see she cares for him without either acting like a prude or showing her feelings so plainly he is tempted to look for a less easy conquest. Try being especially nice to the young man, the next time he calls. You might try preparing a nice little supper—you know what is said to be the unfailing road to a man's heart.

Glassware will have an added lustre if vinegar is put into the water in which it is rinsed.

For cleaning baby's nursing bottles nothing equals potatoes cut in small pieces and shaken with a little water in the bottle.

A reliable way of testing eggs is to place them in a solution of salt and water. Add a large tablespoon of common salt in a pint of water. Stale eggs will float in this solution, while fresh ones will sink.

STOCK MARKET DULLNESS IS RESUMED

New York, May 21—In the absence of special developments in the industrial and business world, the stock market returned to its dull and narrow trading rangs today.

Stock sales in the forenoon were 900,000 shares less than in the same period yesterday. Most of the speculative favorites, after moving slightly higher price levels, dropped off from sheer neglect.

RAILS IN LEAD

As usual, business and industrial reports were more important for what they promised in the future than for their reflection of past performances in industrial concerns.

The Iron Age's weekly review emphasized the "pronounced lull" in the iron and steel markets, with demand for steel receding.

After the first hour, trading on the stock market dwindled to a shadow, and the turnover was as small as in any mid-summer session.

The rails made a brave effort to move up, with Atchison and Pacific spurting about three points, New York Central, Pennsylvania a point and Katy a point and more.

National Supply Co. opened up 2 on news of pipe line contracts of more than $25,000,000, with one for around $20,000,000 from Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Co.

MOTORS IN FAVOR

General Motors was again the favorite in the motor group, with a rise to above 50.

Stocks of the food companies, including National Biscuit and Borden, rose 2 or more points and some of the low-priced issues a point or less.

Amusement stocks, coppers, oils steels and other important speculative groups had a seat on the side-lines and showed no disposition to venture into the arena. Call money was in supply at 3 per cent.

Failure of high grade stocks to carry on yesterday's late rally caused some renewal of professional selling in the morning trading, after only a moderate and spotty show of strength at the opening.

Liquidation of U. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can and Westinghouse Electric, all of which lost a couple of points, was accompanied by little sympathetic weakness elsewhere, and the market hardened later on the resumption of pool operations in the food shares and a few specialties.

Worthington Pump, Liquid Carbonic, National Biscuit, United Biscuit, Loose-Wiles, National Dairy Products, Du Pont, Columbian Carbon and Underwood-Elliott Fisher advanced 2 to 4 points. Hershey Chocolate, Continental Baking A, Borden, Jewel Tea and F. G. Shattuck figured in the gains.

Two wide movers in the afternoon were Auburn and Case. Auburn receded over 8 and Case dropped 25 points from its day's high in the last hour.

Although offerings were light, the market was practically without support in the last hour, and highpriced and erratic issues tumbled sharply.

Westinghouse Electric, Vanadium, and Eastman Kodak showed losses of 4 to 7 points. U. S. Steel sold off more than 3 points, breaking through 167, then rallied.

The market closed with a rally

It is estimated that during 1930 approximately $25,000,000 will be so spent. Of this latter amount, about $6,000,000 was spent up to May 1.

Construction work on the Fifteen Mile Falls unit is progressing satisfactorily and is about 75 per cent to 80 per cent completed. All work is up to schedule and the station is expected to be operating by Oct. 1 next, with capacity of 160,000 KW.

The New Hampshire ads relaining wall is complete and earth section of the dam is nearly 65 per cent completed. Spillway part of the dam is 100 per cent complete and clearing of the pond area has been accomplished.

PRICE CHANGES ARE NARROW IN BOSTON

Price changes were narrow in dull trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. Copper was slightly higher in forenoon trading but sagged later.

Profit taking appeared in Aldes & Fisher which yesterday set a new high for the year. Activity had been based on the belief that the report of the New England cigar maker for the quarter ended March 31, last, will be favorable notwithstanding general business recession. In 1929 the company earned $2.80 a share on the 149,200 shares, against $3.34 a share on 150,000 shares in 1928. Business thus far this year would warrant estimate for the full year somewhere between figures for the past two. On regular $2 dividend, the stock currently yields approximately 10.8 per cent.

American Founders sold at its $920 low.

United Shoe Machinery was active around its high for the year at 68¾. Report for the year ended February 28, last, will be out late this week.

Point or more losses were shown by American Telephone, Anaconda, New England Telephone, Pacific Mills, Torrington and Boston & Maine prior preferred.

Gains of a point or more were shown by the following issues: Boston Elevated, Economy Stores, Railway Light & Security and Hathaway B.

The close saw a sharp rally. Copper Range Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, payable July 15 to stock of record June 26. Three months ago a quarterly dividend of 50 cents was declared.

Calumet & Arizona Mining Co. which took the lead among copper producers in reducing their output from a 310 to a $6 annual rate in mid-February because of the poor buying of the metal when the price was 18 cents, has again bowed to conditions over which it had no control and brought the rate down to a $2 basis. Obviously, the drop in the price of copper to 12½ cents tells the story.

The Frank G. Shattuck Co., owning and operating Schrafft's stores, has acquired Wallace C. Boyden candy manufacturers, through an exchange of stock. Shattuck stock, used in the acquisition of Wallace, was obtained in the open market and no issuance of new stock will be necessary.

Barnet Leather Co.

Barnet Leather Co. for quarter ended March 31 reported net loss of $69,782 after taxes and charges, against net loss of $156,736 in the first quarter of 1928.

EARNINGS LOWER

F. M., Lowell—Shall I hold or sell 50 shares Hudson Motor bought at 55 less?

Ans.—We should not want to be responsible for your taking a loss, as it do we know future prices. Hudson Motor is a large producer of low and medium-priced automobiles. Net earnings in 1929 were $7.56 a share, compared with $8.43 in 1928 and $9.04 in 1927. Annual dividends have varied from $3 a share in 1922 to current $3 rate established in October, 1927. Because of keen competition and unsatisfactory conditions in the automobile industry, dividends for first quarter of current year were covered by a slight margin. Net of $1.45 a share, contrasted with $2.85 for similar period in 1929. The yield now is about 11 per cent.

UNDER FIVE PER CENT

T. Q., Cambridge—I own $2000 Inch S. W. Straus first mortgage 6s and Prudence Company 6½s for a short time. I have selected New York Central. What is your opinion?

Ans.—New York Central has paid dividends since 1870; current annual $8 rate from third quarter of 1927. A 1929 earning of $16.39 a share, compared with $16.86 in 1928 and $18.90 in 1927. A purchase at this level at recent levels, however, would yield less than 5 per cent. The bonds you have are sound.

THREE PER CENT

E. R., Boston—I want to buy a stock and have selected International Harvester. Is it a good investment?

Ans.—International Harvester's business was established in 1902. It manufactures agricultural machinery, industrial tractors and motor trucks. Annual net income has increased steadily since 1922. On the present no par stock, issued in December, 1925, earnings for 1929 were $7.11 a share, compared with $5.53 in 1928. Dividends in varying amounts, with extras in stock, have been paid from 1923; the annual rate now is $2.50 a share. At recent levels the yield was less than 3 per cent. When dividends will warrant the current price has not been indicated.

Bond Market Moves in a Narrow Rut

New York, May 21—Listed bond market moved in a narrow rut today. Trading was dull. Rail liens led in volume, aside from the predominating convertibles, and were steady to firm. New financing totaled $27,349,000 for the day. The First National Bank of Montreal group was awarded the $30,000,000 Ontario 4½ per cent bond issue, at 94.61.

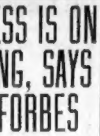
BUSINESS IS ON UPSWING, SAYS B. C. FORBES

By B. C. FORBES.

New York, May 31—Often the darkest just before the dawn. Week-kneed individuals are terribly depressed. They are sure that commodity prices will do nothing but go down and down. They cannot see what can happen to infuse real life into business. Unemployment — it is beyond all hope. As for the stock market, it has hardly friend left.



B. C. Forbes.

Bure, conditions are far from ideal. They are so far from ideal that, in my humble opinion, they are bound to get better. I believe, for example, that commodity price levels—apart from certain manufactured goods which are constantly being produced more economically—are little likely to sink much lower but are very likely to begin to show strength. General business, too, impresses me as already on the up grade, although miracles must not be expected.

As for the stock market, it looks infinitely more attractive to me now than it did a year ago. I, for one, was selling stocks then, whereas I was a buyer during the last sharp break. If stocks were alluring a year ago when they were selling at fancy prices, surely they are better investments today at drastically lower prices.

I don't want to be considered as holding out hopes for an immediate boom in the stock market. A considerable period of dullness would be logical, so would drifting or duration, with more declines than advances. While I have retained ownership of a majority of the stocks I acquired during the panic, I said enough to be in a position to take advantage of any reasonable weakness which may occur—it is always wise to hold on to a comfortable reserve.

But my very definite opinion is that within 12 months—and probably very much sooner—the stock market will again start moving spiritedly upward.

It takes no emotional courage to predict that industry and business in general will also be doing distinctly better by this time next year. America is too inherently sound, too rich in human energy and money, too dynamically energetic and enterprising to stay down for very long.

Research carried on quietly in the oil industry will by and by be found the world by its fruits.

One fairly safe rule for investors in industrial stocks is to acquire shares of companies which spend the greatest amount of money in research.

* * *

The opinion is spreading that President Hoover will veto the tariff bill. It certainly is a masterpiece of political hugger-mugger, displeasing to the farming and abroad, except those who have maneuvered to get a share of the swag.

* * *

The salary of Glenn McGarrah, president of the Bank of International Settlements, which has just started business in Basle, Switzerland, is $50,000 a year. That was probably about what he received when president of the Mexican Light and Metals Bank before Al Wiggin made it part of his Chase Bank, and is vastly much less than was paid to most presidents of huge American enterprises. But the figure probably will make Europeans gasp. Over there $50,000 salaries are almost unknown. The man who rules the British empire, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, gets $25,000. I know one private secretary of an American multimillionaire business man who earns more than $200,000 a year.

My hat's off to Alexander Legge. Although he has been assigned one of the most impossible jobs in the world, he has tackled his superhuman difficulties with indomitable courage, refusing to let his confidence be shaken.

Study the careers of the men who have made the greatest marks in this country and you will discover that the one outstanding characteristic of nearly all of them was unconquerable courage.

Wheat Prices Rise in Chicago Market

Chicago, May 21—Wheat prices here turned upward today, helped by advances at Liverpool and by reported probable domestic crop deterioration southwest if weather becomes unusually hot. Stocks of wheat in Great Britain are reported as diminishing.

Opening ¾–¾ higher, Chicago wheat afterward held near to this initial range. Corn, oats and provisions were also easy, with corn starting unchanged to ¼ off, and subsequently showing little alteration.

Senate Should Bar Reed, Robinson in Treaty Study

Neither Senator Eligible to Sit in Judgment

Why does the United States Senate permit Senator Robinson of Arkansas and Senator Reed of Pennsylvania to take any part in the judicial examination of the London naval treaty which the Committee on Foreign Relations is making for the Senate?

Neither Senator Robinson nor Senator Reed is eligible to sit in judgment on that treaty because both are incapable of judging it impartially.

Why should Senator Robinson, as a member of the Committee on Foreign Relations, sit in judgment upon a treaty which he helped to negotiate and which he is now defending as special counsel for the administration?

Why should Senator Reed, as a member of the Committee on Foreign Relations, sit in judgment upon a treaty which he helped to negotiate and which he is now defending as special counsel for the administration?

The truth is that both these Senators in their eagerness to serve the administration and commend their London activities to the American people have forgotten that no man, not even a Senator, can serve two masters.

No Senator in Congress ought ever again to disqualify himself for sitting in impartial judgment upon a treaty as a member of the Committee on Foreign Relations by going to a conference as a delegate of the President to negotiate a treaty upon which the Senate must subsequently pass judgment.

Meantime, a decent sense of the proprieties ought to prevent the senior Senator from Arkansas and the senior Senator from Pennsylvania from taking any part in the independent and impartial and judicial examination of the London naval treaty which it is the duty of the Committee on Foreign Relations to make as advisors to the Senate.

Build That Subway

Legislature's Duty Is to Give Public Relief

That legislative buck-passing phrase, "next annual session," was softly spoken yesterday at the House Ways and Means Committee hearing on the bill for extension of the subway to relieve Governor Square traffic congestion. Fortunately, it met with little response.

It is hardly conceivable that further procrastination will be allowed to stand in the way of clearing up shameful conditions at Governor Square. The bill, as it has already passed the Senate, has the approval of Mayor Curley, the Boston Elevated and the Boston Chamber of Commerce. As the mayor admits, it may not be 100 per cent perfect. Perhaps it can be made better than it is now. But something must be done at Governor Square and it must be done in the very near future.

The public wants no "next annual session" report from the House. Too much constructive legislation has gone that road in the past. Thousands of citizens are being inconvenienced every day at Governor Square. The need for immediate relief is admitted. It is the Legislature's urgent duty to stop quibbling about ways and means, and get this job done.

How to Succeed

Mr. Carleton Reveals the Secret

It was bound to happen sometime and it did. A captain of industry, Newcomb Carleton, president of the Western Union, gave an honest interview the other day. It was on the favorite subject of captains of industry—how to win success.

He said:

"It's all in the breaks. You can encourage the breaks by taking intelligent chances, but this old gospel of hard work and so on is the bunk. There are a dozen men in our plants who could fill my job as well as I do. These people who are always lecturing youth make me sick. I never make speeches to Boy Scouts and commencement classes. What can I say? If I am forced to speak I say, 'Go run around the block and find things out for yourself.'

"I'm fed up with important and pretentious people. These stuffed shirts who come from high places and tell you how the world is getting along are 90 per cent bunk and 10 per cent publicity."

Something ought to be done about Mr. Carleton. He is giving away trade secrets. He might have waited, at least, until the graduation season was over. He has made it almost imperative for speakers to say something. Embarrassing, we call it.

Laugh

And Grow Healthy

The old proverb "laugh and grow fat" should read "laugh and grow healthy," according to Johns Hopkins University scientists who have spent hours of research in their laboratories to prove it.

Laughter, they say, stimulates respiration and circulation, increasing the blood pressure and send more blood to the head by breaking up every train of thinking and every sustained activity of the body.

That is merely another way of saying that a good laugh sweeps away the cobwebs from the brain, gives you a fresh start on a perplexing problem, acts as a sort of mental and physical cocktail, with no harmful after effects.

Thus the clown shares with the physician a place among the benefactors of humanity, and the comic strips of a newspaper are as valuable as the column of health hints. Goldsmith's famous line about "the loud laugh that speaks the vacant mind" is all wrong. So is the phrase "a short life and a merry one."

Kind Words for War

From the President's Brother

President Hoover's brother, Theodore, dean of the Stanford School of Engineering, says:

"The human race develops by war . . . Races perish by peace . . . The pacifist are in assuming that peace is desirable . . . Culture increases by the use of weapons. . . ."

Interesting thoughts from an interesting man. Especially interesting when you recall that President Hoover is a Quaker, and presumably Dean Hoover is also.

They remind you of the writings of Von Bernhardi and other Prussians of the old days before 1914. They will not please many millions of Americans, including, perhaps, the President.

That does not prove, of course, that Dean Hoover is wrong.

H. G. Wells Writes

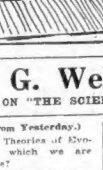
What are the Theories of Evolution between which we are asked to decide?

The fact of vital Evolution has gleamed upon intelligent minds at various phases in the world's history, but the modern revival of biological science had been going on for some time before it rose again to recognition.

Linnaeus (1707 - 1778) seems to have had no doubts of the fixity of species. It was only toward the close of the 18th century and with the increasing study of comparative anatomy and fossils that the fixity of species began to be questioned.



H. G. Wells

At first the fact of Evolution was seen piecemeal, as a possible change of one species into another within the boundaries of this or that restricted group of allied forms.

It was not apprehended as a process comprehending all living things. Perhaps all the carnivores were genetically related, for example, or all the horned cattle.

It was then generally called Transformism. The word Evolution came later. And the question whether the process included man, was either not raised or plainly or tacitly answered in the negative.

The first attempt to explain Transformism was to ascribe it to the effort of the living being to adapt itself to the often difficult condition under which it had to live.

The French Naturalist Lamarck (1744-1829) pointed out that the individual was responsive to its circumstances, that it used and developed this organ and made little use of and therefore did not greatly develop that, that within limits need and and exercise called forth structure; and he supposed that these individual adaptations were in a measure inherited.

The three-toed horse—if we may use an example unknown to Lamarck—which under changing conditions was always scampering on firm prairies and scarcely ever going on soft ground, made no use of its once useful side toes, and so they were not stimulated to develop, while the business end got all the work and all the benefit. The foals, according to the Lamarckian idea, inherited the enhanced main toe and the reduced side ones.

This line of argument was made exceedingly plausible by the known fact that we all develop best the organs we use most; the rower his biceps, the singer his chest. The weakness of the Lamarckian case, or at least the unproven assumption of it, was that the individual development was in any degree inherited.

In ordinary biological discussion the individual development is called an "acquired characteristic"; the size of the rower's biceps, for instance. Lamarck assumed the inheritance of acquired characteristics and found in that partial explanation of Transformism.

To this day the belief in the inheritance of acquired characters is called Lamarckism. With the inclusion of an involuntary response to the environment (such as the response of growing trees to the direction of a prevailing wind, or the darkening of some birds' feathers when they are reared in a warm and humid atmosphere) and the inheritance of this response, it is called Neo-Lamarckism.

Lamarck's realisation of at least a limited evolution of species, Transformism, was based on an infinitely smaller knowledge of fact than we have today. He relied chiefly on fossil shells, rudimentary structures, and the manifest anatomical resemblances of animals for his belief that Evolution occurred.

In Other Words

By NELSON HARDING

India's salt rebellion has a new leader in Mrs. Naidu, and the British must wish Mr. Naidu's wife would turn into a pillar of salt.

We'll have no trouble about salt over here, as it isn't needed for making bootleg liquor.

Still, a man has been arrested for selling juniper berries. Nobody has yet been pinched for picking them. Too much like beating about the bush, perhaps.

After our navy has been wiped out in one or two more London parleys it will be up to President Hoover to appoint a Fleet Finding Commission.

On the other hand, or to turn the other cheek, as we should say in the premises: If the doctor is correct in his prediction that the bone construction of American jaws will grow smaller, what will become of our radio announcers?

The Thin Ones Get the Call

By ARTHUR BAER

Service supervisor says that space in department store is so valuable that he never hires a fat saleslady.

They take up too much room in back of the counter. They lack the cruising radius and flexible mobility of a thin girl. Too much wheelbase.

But when they want somebody to take a plane off a shelf do they call a skinny dame? They don't. Up toddles a husky saleslady and slaps that plane into the aisle.

When a customer gets rambunctious and yells from the floorwalker who takes her by the arm and gives her a gentle but firm exit? Why, the girl who is built like the ground crew of a Zeppelin.

And who does the handsome floorwalker take out to dinner at eventide? The skinny saleslady? Nope. She eats too much.

When husbands are sent downtown to match something in the lingerie department do they strut nervously to the thin salesladies?

No. They look around like a leopard in a jungle until they see a good-natured, smiling, fatty saleslady with a complexion as clear as a lake and almost as wide.

They walk up to her with all the confidence of a fireman breaking a window pane. They feel perfectly at home with the stout dry-goods merchantress because she reminds 'em of the wife.

We have yet to see a stoutish saleslady who wasn't a good salesman; she knows her business, stands firmly on her feet and doesn't knock packages off the shelf doing a hula dance.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Synthetic Personalities.

It's as hard to find real personalities nowadays as to find real gin. Everything's synthetic.

Look us over. Watch us do our "stuff." We have assembled our spring wardrobes. Here's a gesture from Smith—and a wise crack from Joseph—and a slick mannerism from White. Somebody puts on a snappy bit in the new Review and we think what a bang it would be, down at the offices. Promptly we snitch it and make it our own. Greta Garbo's husky voice breaks passionately from the film—Rudy's crooning cuddles us across the air—and we watch Ethel Barrymore emoting over a six-inch handkerchief.

Whereupon our own bronchial tubes go Garbo, we get hoity-toity with our own hankies and, at the very first opportunity, croon like a calliope. A quirk of the finger, a flip of the knee, a lisp or a yawn will sweep across this country like an epidemic. If Ramon Navarro had his ears clipped tomorrow morning, the nation would be that way within a week.

Nor is that all. We not only assemble intonations, mannerisms and gesture, but we also borrow and grab our thoughts and attitudes. If Mencken gets off one of his Bright Ones about American Morons, we all decide to give Main Street the dog eye. If Will Rogers mentions the Dear Old Ranch in Oklahoma, we all go Home Town with Bill. So we shop about for the latest, most popular idea—with the result that most of us have about as much individuality as a wad of gum.

Back of this there lies, of course, a real need. Personality is as vital to success in life as eyes and ears, arms and legs. The human without a personality becomes a helpless cog in the ruthless mechanism of twentieth century life. So we struggle feverishly to acquire a "line." But synthetic personalities can never help us, for they are only masks—and everybody knows they are masks.

Do not try to acquire a line. Create your own. You have all the makin's. You are actually as different from the rest of the world as Greta Garbo or Ethel Barrymore or Will Rogers. You may not be different in the same way, but your differentness is just as unique as theirs and may be just as compelling.

They are forceful not because they speak or move or think in a certain way, but because, whatever they do, THEY ARE THEMSELVES. And so, whatever they do, however trivial, bears the imprint of their living spirits—and is as distinct from counterfeits as the fragrance of a blooming rose is distinct from bottled perfume.

Be YOURSELF—your honest self. Never mind if you're limited and obscure and a bit dull. Remember that, whatever you are, you are different from anyone else, and that that difference is your chief treasure. Express that difference in your own way. Then no matter how simple your personality, it will be a RARE ORIGINAL.

Capital Silhouettes

By GEORGE R. BROWN

If you want an idea of what the senatorial campaign in Arkansas is going to be like you might get Mr. Caraway's vocabulary out of the lobby committee report.

* * *

* * *

Friends of the naval treaty confidently expect the confirmation of the pact, both of 'em being certain it will go through.

* * *

The House finally passes the bill transferring the government's inability to enforce the prohibition laws from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice.

* * *

Miss Fort abandons the Dwight Morrow senatorial handwagon, to throw her support to her brother, thus proving that blood is thicker than light wines and beer.

* * *

Judging by the primaries in old Joe Grundy's Pennsylvania, what the "backward states" need is not radio receiving sets by a considerable number of broadcasting stations.

* * *

The flaw in Senator Allen's argument that an advertising drive would have sold prohibition to the American people is that back of every article successfully advertised by printer's ink there must be good faith, honesty, and dollar for dollar value. In these days when you see it in an "ad" it's an!

It's all very kind and generous for the government to waive the civil service regulations to give federal jobs to the widows of prohibition agents slain on the job, but what's going to be done for the widows and orphans of liquor suspects shot in the back first and investigated afterwards?

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

New York, May 21—What might have been the most disastrous season in the history of the fashionable dressmaking establishments was averted by a freakish quirk. And instead of possible bankruptcy, they enjoyed one of the most profitable seasons in 10 years.

The lengthening of Milady's skirts was the fortuitous circumstance that brought the amazing puff of prosperity. Ladies who follow the styles suddenly discovered their entire wardrobes were outmoded. Short hems precluded the possibility of lowering skirts on hand.

Thus women had to be completely re-outfitted or step out of the parade. The designer who brought about the quick change, but save in the trade did not receive credit therefor, was Louise Boulanger, of Paris. Her introduction of the idea was acclaimed with a hoot.

But the unexplainable happened. Holdouts began to fall into line. Only one Parisian dressmaker refused stubbornly to comply with the new dictum. As a result, the American customers of that salon found themselves in Palm Beach for the season as out of date as the puff sleeve.

Never were the mercurial vagaries of fashion so strikingly illustrated as in the restoration of a longer skirt. The greatest experts were convinced the short skirt, due to trimness and freedom, would not be changed for many seasons. It was a fixture.

American women took to the change with more enthusiasm than their European sisters. There is still a little reluctance among diehards, especially in England. But as nearly as anyone can judge in the trade, a longer skirt will remain for some time.

That American, or rather New York, is out in front as a style leader and riding hard is now apparent. Lelong, Worth, Patou and other foremost Parisian modistes now come to this country twice a year to study conditions before making up collections. A frock is hailed as "very American" instead of "very Parisian."

Contrariwise, three of New York's leading dressmakers who used to make four yearly style scouting excursions to Paris make but a single trip these days. And Jean Auguh, reputed best dressed woman of Paris, announces her fall wardrobe will be selected in New York.

In Paris an expert designer is paid the top price of $8000 a year. The majority receive about $6000. Four New York designers receive $50,000 each annually. Two were immigrants.

New York couturiers have abolished what has long been known as "openings"—at which seasonal creations are privately shown to favored patrons. It was discovered many who received exclusive invitations would pass them on, sometimes to servants.

One more observation and needlework will be dropped for the day. The most expensive frock of the season was made for a musical comedy star for $7500.

* * *

A colored elevator man in 43d street, in reply to my observation the weather had moderated observed: "Yessah, the wind has debated considerable."

* * *

Which recalls the time a darkey in our town saw an 11-inning tie game between the Cincinnati and Chicago ball clubs. He postcarded his employer: "Game last 11 endings. Not airy one made by airy one."

* * *

I always enjoy a brush between two taxis. It is possible to pick up at such time red-corpuscled phrases that have even escaped Bill Hogg's lexicon. The formula is standardized. Each driver leaps from his perch, glares icily and, suddenly lets go of simply grand epithets. Then they jot down license numbers and ride away again. Often whistling.

* * *

"I notice," writes George B. ——, certain sanctimony in your writings lately. It is an opportune time to tell the world about the time my aunt caught you writing a dirty word on our coal house."
